JAMES HARRIS PASSED AWAY

Prominent Bellefonte Man Died in Philadelphia Hospital.

OPERATION ON TUESDAY

Deceased was Identified With Bellefonte Industrial Interests and Was One of the Town's Prominent Citizens.

A BRIEF SKETCH OF HIS CAREER

While it was known that the health of one of Bellefonte's leading citizens, James Harris, had been impaired for some time, the news of his death in Philadelphia Wednesday afternoon came as a shock to his friends in Bellefonte. Mr. Harris had been afflicted with throat trouble and on Wednesday of last week he went to Philadelphia where he entered the University hospital for treatment. On Tuesday a serious operation was performed on his throat and he rallied satisfactorily. Dr. George F. Harris was with him at the time and returned home Tuesday night as the patient's conditon was favorable. A telegram from the hospital Wednesday morning stated that Mr. Harris' condition was very critical and Wednesday evening the word was received that he had passed away. His death was due to double pneumonia, an occurrence which often follows such an operation. He is survived by his wife and half-brother Dr. George F. Harris.

James Harris was a son of William and Margaret (McLanahan) Harris, and was born in Bellefonte on the 24th of September 1832. He was married September 24 1878 to Miss Lavina C. Slaymaker of Lancaster county.

After completing his education in early life he engaged in the tanning business in Snow Shoe township, where he remained until 1856. In 1857 he engaged in business at the Milesburg Iron works, operated by his cousins J. H. Linn and J. H. McCoy, with whom he remained until the beginning of the Civil war, when he enlisted with the Bellefonte Fencibles, and attained the rank of major. Upon his return at the close of the war he and his cousin John Harris organized the hardware firm of J. & J. Harris. In 1884 and '85 he erected the large brick block at the corner of High and Water streets, for the accommodation of the extensive wholesale and retail hardware business of James Harris & Co., and which is now occupied by the Potter—Hoy Hardware company. A few years ago he retired from active business, but was still identified with Bellefonte industrial interests, being vice president of the Centre County bank, a director of the Bellefonte Lumber company and the Bellefonte Electric company.

Mr. Harris was an elder in the Bellefonte Presbyterian church, and was associated with many movements for the moral improvement of the town. He was one of the best known men of Bellefonte, and was always abreast in any enterprise that would be a benefit the community. His death is a loss to the industrial life of the town and leaves a vacancy which few can fill.

The funeral of the late James Harris was held Saturday afternoon and services were held in the Presbpterian church at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. J. Allison Platts officiated and was assisted by Rev. Kelley, a lifelong friend of the deceased, and Rev. Brooks, of Milroy. Besides the immediate members of the family there were a large number of sorrowing friends present to hear the touching words of the ministers. The Gregg Post, of which body he was a member, and many of the Y. M. C. A. members attended the services in a body. Several beautiful floral tributes were received from the associations and friends in appreciation of the esteem in which he was regarded by the givers. Interment was made in the Union cemetery.

Emenhizer—Prince.

A pretty and quiet wedding took place at Milesburg on Wednesday when Miss Edith Prince and Charles E. Emenhizer both of Curtin, were united in marriage by the Rev. G. W. Frey. Both are well known young people of Curtin and have a large number of friends who wish them well through the journey of life.

THE BELLEFONTE ACADEMY

Auspicious Prospects for the Term Which will Open September 9

The Bellefonte Academy will enter upon its 104th schoolastic year on Wednesday afternoon, September 9th, at 2 o'clock. Never in the history of the school have the prospects been so auspicious. A very large attendance is expected. The new athletic field and the employment of an experienced and successful coach for all athletic teams are proving effective drawing cards.

The very strong corps of teachers of last year will be on hand again this year, augmented by the acquisition of coach Charles E. Hall, A. B., who will also instruct in Mathematics and Latin as needed, and of Mrs. Arthur H. Sloop who will assist in the primary work, having been a very successful primary teacher for several years in the schools of Delaware. The teachers and their departments will be as follows:

Rev. J. P. Hughes, A. M., Principal Emeritus, Mathematics.

James R. Hughes, A. M., Principal, Latin and Oratory.

Miss Helen E. Overton, Preceptress, Primary Branches.

Franklin T. Cole, B. S., Mathematics.

Arthur H. Sloop, A. B., Mathematics and Sciences.

Sherwood E. Hall, A. B., Latin, History and Civics.

Adolph B. Benson, B. S., French German and Spanish.

George H. Whiteford, B. S., Bookkeeping, Physical Geography and Mathematics.

Miss Isabella S. Hill, Ph. B., English, Rhetoric and Literature.

Mrs. Arthur H. Sloop, Primary and Intermediate Branches.

Miss Jennie Harper, Primary Branches.

Rev. J. Allison Platts, Ph. D., Bible Lecturer.

Charles E. Hall, A. B., Director of Athletics and assistant in Latin and Mathematics.

Traction Engine Wrecked

The Huber traction engine owned by Harry Shivery was wrecked at the corner of Spring and Logan streets Thursday evening about 5:30 o'clock. The street at this place has just been covered with crushed limestone and when part way up the hill it was discovered that the engine could not haul the separator and tank over the loose stones. It was decided to turn and go around by way of Water street in order to get to the pike. After the engine had been turned part way round the engineer, Newton Kline, told Mr. Shivery that there was danger of the engine skidding into the gutter if he would make a short turn along the bank of the ditch. The attempt was made, however, and the front wheel of the engine skidded to one side and dropped into the gutter which is quite deep at that point. This caused the king bolt to break and the feed pipe from the water tank to the boiler was broken off. Instantly there was a great hissing of steam and hot water and in a few minutes time the boiler was emptied. The engineer pulled the fire from the firebox before any damage resulted to the boiler.

None of the men who were about the engine at the time were burned or injured, and they were fortunate in escaping a scalding as the hot water and steam blew across the street. The hissing of the escaping steam soon drew a large crowd of people who thought an explosion had occurred. The members of the threshing crew worked away until they could find out what repairs were needed.

Mrs. Sophia Stover.

Mrs. Sophia Stover, an aged lady of Unionville and widow of William Stover, died at her home in that place Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, after a lingering illness of consumption due to old age.

The deceased had been one of the lifelong residents of that place. Her husband passed to his reward about nineteen years ago. Mrs. Stover was 83 years last April and was one of the oldest citizens of the place. She was well known throughout the community and had many friends in other places. Of a family of twelve children born to them 6 are living as follows: Mrs. J. Fall Stover of Bellefonte, Mrs. Mame Fink of Tyrone, Mrs. Laura Bricker of Boalsburg; Mrs. Susie McEwen of Unionville, John of Reedsville, and Andrew Curtin Stover of St. Paul, Minn.

The funeral was held Friday afternoon from the Methodist church at Unionville and services were conducted by Rev. M. C. Piper. Interment in the cemetery at Unionville.

LARGE ESTATE INVOLVED

In the Matrimonial Tangles of a Former Centre Countian

HE HAD SEVERAL WIVES

And She Had Many Husbands, but Neither was Ever Divorced. Wife No. 2 Amasses Fortune.

BELLEFONTE ATTORNEY EMPLOYED

The following interesting account of the matrimonial tangles of a former Centre countian is taken from the Hartford Ind. News, and we reprint it in full for our readers.

A story with many remarkable features touching upon the romantic, in which Daniel Wolf, an aged Harrison township citizen, figures prominently has become public through the death of Lydia A. Shull-Wolf-Devine-Johnson and the resulting controversy between various persons for the possession of the woman's estate, valued approximately at $30,000.

Back in the 60's, about the time war was declared between the north and south, Daniel Wolf, scarcely of age, was joined in holy wedlock to Eliza Oil to which two children, twins, were born. The day of their birth the mother passed into eternity, and within a month afterward the twins followed their mother to the grave. Two years later Wolf accepted an invitation to a country picnic, where he became acquainted with Lydia A. Shull. Their friendship soon ripened into love and shortly afterward at Reberesburg, Centre county, Pa., they were married by Squire Jeremiah Haines. Wolf says the matrimonial knot was tied in a tannery operated by Squire Haines. With his wife Wolf lived at Clintondale and Sugar Valley, Pa., at which place he was engaged at wagon-making for about two years. The couple's home life was not pleasant and finally the wife deserted her husband, leaving for parts unknown.

Despondent from the treatment accorded him by his life partner, Wolf emigrated to Kansas. Less than a half-dozen years afterward. Wolfe claims he learned from his mother that his second wife, Lydia Wolf, had accompanied a party of lumber men into the mountains in Pennsylvania, and there in the course of a drunken brawl had been murdered. Believing this to be true he married Mary E. Oliver without even attempting to secure a divorce from wife No. 2. To this union six children were born, five of whom are still living, all heads of families. One son, Samuel Wolf, is engaged in the blacksmith business in Hartford City; two live at Montpelier and two at Muncie.

Twenty-two years ago Wolf and wife No. 3 separated in Kansas. Immediately afterward Wolf came to Blackford county and until a week ago had lived on his ten-acre tract of land in Harrison township as a hermit. Wife No. 3 is said to be living at Muncie with a daughter.

It develops that instead of being murdered Wolf's second wife, whose maiden name was Lydia Shull, continued to live in the state of Pennsylvania, at various periods conducting resorts of ill repute, until she amassed a fortune of about $30,000. She had in the meantime, however, without securing a legal separation from Wolf, married a man named Devine, from whom she was later divorced. Three years ago Lydia Shull-Wolf-Devine made a will bequeathing all her estate to her brother, Thomas Shull, sisters, Mary Slaterbeck, Mrs. Bickel and another whose name is unknown here. Four months prior to her death she married Charles A. Johnson, a railroader in his twenty-second year.

Claim for possession of the estate, which consists mostly of real estate at Altoona, Pa., was made by the brother and three sisters immediately after their sister's death. Johnson filed a counter claim for a portion of the estate on the grounds that inasmuch as he was the husband of the deceased he was entitled to at least a third of the estate. The controversy between Johnson and those named in the will as heirs became heated and investigation finally led to the discovery of Daniel Wolf, who appears to have been the only legal husband of the deceased, and by the laws of the state of Pennsylvania one of the rightful heirs to the disputed estate.

James Miller, of Bellefonte, Pa., attorney for the legatees, through communication with Attorney A. M. Waltz, of this city, who has since been retained by the legatees as one of their legal advisers learned the location of Wolf. Three weeks ago Mr. Miller came to Blackford county accompanied by M. A. Rishel, of Clintondale, Pa., a former neighbor of Wolf. Messrs. Miller, Rishel and Waltz visited the Wolf home and from Wolf's conversation became thoroughly convinced that Daniel Wolf had never been divorced from the deceased and that he had been the woman's only legal husband. Wolf consented to relate the queer story of his life, and Friday at Montpelier he submitted the foregoing to Attorney Waltz.

Neighbors learned of the remarkable affair from the aged man at the conclusion of his conference with the attorneys. Some warned Wolf that he would likely be severely dealt with for marrying Mary Oliver without having been divorced from the one whom he had previously wed. So heavily did Wolf's fear of arrest weigh on his mind that finally he deserted his little hovel on the farm, going to the woods, where he remained for several days to avoid apprehension. A fortnight ago Wolf's daughter living at Montpelier was informed of her father's peculiar actions, and after locating him in the woods persuaded him to accompany her to Montpelier, where he has since remained.

Recently Charles Johnson appeared in Montpelier fresh from Altoona, Pa., on the trail of the man apt to block his claim for a portion of the estate. Johnson easily located Wolf, whom he offered $50 to deny all connection with the affair. Wolf refused to accept, but before their parting Wolf succeeded in wrestling information from Johnson which will not be beneficial to the latter when the case is heard in the Pennsylvania courts.

According to Wolf he was told by Johnson that he (Johnson) married the woman merely for the sake of securing her estate at her death. He said further Wolf declares, that Lydia Wolf-Devine asked him to become her husband and contracted that after their marriage she would prepare a will, bequeathing the greater part of her estate to him. This, however, he said she refused to do. Before departing, Wolf claims, Johnson said, "Do you suppose I would have married Lydia merely because I loved her? If you do you are sadly mistaken. I wanted her money, and even though you interfere I will get it."

The Pennsylvania statutes provide that when a woman make a will and afterward weds the will becomes null and void. Johnson demands a part of the estate, claiming to have been the woman's legal husband at the time of her death. If it is proved, and apparently it will be, that the woman was never divorced from Daniel Wolf the claim of Johnson will be invalid.

Wolf has retained Attorney Elisha Pierce, of this city, and will contest the will in an effort to secure a part of the estate on the grounds that he was the woman's only legal husband. Wolf was divorced from Mary E. Oliver-Wolf in the Blackford circuit court six years ago.

A. M. Waltz, of this city, James Miller, of Bellefonte, Pa., and Henry Hipple, of Lock Haven, Pa., are representing the deceased's brother and three sisters. Attorney Henderson, of Altoona, Pa., is Johnson's legal advisor.

Daniel Wolf is known throughout Blackford county. Owing to this fact the case will be watched with considerable interest until it is disposed of.

Notes Many Changes

John E. Gummo, of Beech Creek township, and William Swartz, of Bushnell, Ill., were visitors in this city on Wednesday. The latter was formerly a resident of Howard and is in this section on a visit. He was a member of the Forty-fifth Pennsylvania infantry during the Civil war and some years after that moved to the west, where he had lived ever since. Mr. Swartz has not been in this vicinity for 39 years and notes many changes especially in this city, which he states has a metropolitan appearance. —Lock Haven Expres.

Weaver—Lair.

William F. Weaver, and Miss Carrie Lair, both of Zion came to Bellefonte Wednesday evening and were married at the Reformed parsonage by Rev. A. M. Schmidt. After the ceremony they returned to Zion where they received the congratulations of their many friends. Both are very popular young people in that place and have the best wishes of their friends for a happy married life.

WILL PROBE STOCK DEALS

Volume of Trade on Saturday Has Aroused Suspicion

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

Stock Exchange Believes Heavy Trading Was due to Matched Sales to Boom Business and Enters Inquiry.

INVESTIGATION WILL BE THOROUGH

New York, Aug. 24.—A special committee of five members of the New York Stock Exchange will conduct an investigation of the transactions which took place on the floor of the exchange Saturday, when more than a million shares were bought and sold in enormous blocks and in such a manner as to arouse suspicion that the sales were so matched as to create a ficticious impression of activity.

The governing committee of the exchange took up the matter after trading had closed today and in a brief session authorized the president of the exchange R. H. Thomas, to appoint the investigating committee.

George H. Ely, secretary of the exchange, said it was the intention of the governors to have a thorough investigation at once. The names of the members of the investigating committee probably will be announced to-morrow.

The great volume of the trading during the two hours' session of the stock market on Saturday is shown by comparison with that of today. The number of shares sold Saturday was 1,099,000, while in the five hours of trading today 387,000 shares were traded in.

The belief that Saturday's sales were manipulative had its origin in the fact that shares were bought and sold in tremendous blocks without greatly affecting the market prices, but the real purpose underlying the sales has not been ascertained, if it be ulterior, as suspected by the brokers.

Some of the more conservative members refused to accept the orders when they became convinced that the sales were "matched," an order to sell a block of given stock being followed by an order to buy, given through a different broker.

Rev. E. S. Latshaw

On Thursday afternoon about 3:45 Rev. Elliot S. Latshaw, a well known minister of the Central Pennsylvania Methodist conference passed away at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Latshaw, at Curryville, Blair county.

Rev. Latshaw was born and reared at Curryville and was aged about 50 years. On growing to manhood he taught school for several years. In 1893 he joined the Central Penna. conference and did faithful work at the various appointments assigned him until by failing health he was compelled to seek another climate. For four years he was principal of the Howard schools and placed the schools of that town on a high plane of efficiency. He later engaged in business there and erected several dwelling houses with the intention of making that his home, but on account of his health he went to Pine Bluff, North Carolina, where he remained for several years, having recently returned to Curryville.

He is survived by his wife, who has been a constant companion and helpmate in the years of his failing health, and one son, Blair; also by his parents, three sisters and one brother. Those who mourn his death have the sympathies of those who knew best his Christian character and personal virtues.

The funeral was held Saturday morning at the Roaring Spring Methodist church and interment was made at that place.

Brungart—McCool.

Saturday, August 15th, at eleven o'clock, S. Cleveland Brungart, of Reberesburg, and Miss Lettie B. McCool were united in marriage by Rev. W. Henry Schuyler at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McCool, near Centre Hill. Only members of the two families especially interested were present. After partaking of a sumptuous repast the happy couple started on the wedding tour. Both bride and groom have been teaching in the public schools of the county. May their future be happy and useful.

REVISED GAME LAW.

A Bill Which Will be Presented to the Next Legislature.

Dr. Joseph Kalbfus, State Game Commissioner, and Chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Pennsylvania State Sportsman's Association, has drafted a bill to revise the game laws of the State, which will be presented to the next legislature and in all probability will be passed. A synopsis of the bill is as follows:

Prohibits all Sunday hunting.

A person fined for violation of the game law and refusing to pay the fine can be sent to jail for a period of one day for each dollar of penalty, and has the right to appeal.

In addition to the birds mentioned in the present bill that are not game birds, the new law allows the killing at any time of the European starling, crane herron and bittern.

It is prohibited to bring into the State any bird, egg or animal, the importation of which is prohibited by the Lacy Act under $50 penalty.

The open season for woodcock, pheasant, English Mongonlian, or Chinese pheasant will be from October 15th to Dec. 1st; for wild turkeys and quail, Nov. 1st to Dec. 1st. A hunter may shoot but two wild turkeys in one season, there being no changes in the open season of other game.

Hungarian quail shall not be hunted for four years after the passage of the law.

No game shall be hunted from one hour after sunset until one hour after sunrise the next morning.

No more than ten hares or rabbits may be killed in one day.

It shall be unlawful to breed or sell ferrets for the purpose of hunting game and a ferret caught catching game must be killed at once and the owner fined $25.

Williams Reunion

The program for the Williams Reunion to be held at Port Matilda, Aug. 29, 1908:

10:30 a. m. Devotional Exercises by Rev. E. S. Bierly of Port Matilda.

Address of welcome, Rev. G. W. Shires, Port Matilda.

Response, Rev. Karl K. Quinby of New Jersey. 1:30 p. m., address by the following: Rev. G. W. Downing, of Alexandria; Rev. Karl K. Quinby, of New Jersey; Dr. S. F. Forgers, of Huntingdon; Rev. G. A. Williams, of Pine Grove Furnace. Other prominent speakers will also be present.

The committee expects all the trains to stop at the ground except the noon train going east. All of the trains stop at the station which is only a short distance from the ground.

Music will be furnished by the Scotia band.

Dinner and lunch will be sold on the ground, and all kinds of refreshments. There is an excellent spring on the grounds, so that plenty of good pure water can be gotten by all.

Plenty of shade and accommodation for the horses and vehicles of those who may drive just below the grounds.

If you are a Williams, come. If you expect to be one, come. If you never expect to be one, come anyway and have one of the most pleasant days of your life and learn how to enjoy life.

Mabus-Mallory.

According to the beautiful ring ceremony of the United Evangelical church Mr. Blaine Mabus and Miss Nanna L. Mallory of Bellefonte were united in marriage Wednesday evening August 19, 1908 at nine o'clock by Rev. J. F. Hower. The happy couple, which has a host of friends in this vicinity, left on the early train Thursday morning for a ten days wedding trip to Atlantic City, Philadelphia and Lewisburg, the former home of the groom.

The groom is the efficient book-keeper for the lumber firm of P. B. Crider & Son. The bride is the pretty and accomplished young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Mallory of Pine St.

Death of a Child.

Death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Zimmerman at Milesburg, Saturday, August 22, 1908, and removed heir beloved daughter, Lucinda Catherine, aged 1 year, 8 months and 4 days. The child's death was due to cholera infantum. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Frey, pastor of the Evangelical church. The casket bearers were Bessie Bryan, Hilda Bloom, Mable Austin, and Margaret Baird. Interment was made in the Treziyulny cemetery.

TUSTIN ACT DISCRIMINATES

According to Opinion of Judge Bell of Blair County.

FOUST WILL APPEAL

The Noted Judiciary Decides that the Pure Food Law Discriminates Against Pennsysylvania Dealers.

OTHER STATUTES ARE UNAFFECTED

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 20.—Judge Martin Bell in the Blair County Court today decided that the pure food law passed by the Legislature of 1907, known as the Tustin act, is unconstitutional, and set aside the decision of an Altoona alderman fining a grocer for selling peaches preserved in acid.

The Court held that the law deals unfairly with wholesalers and jobbers in Pennsylvania and discriminates against them in favor of those without the State.

In point of fact, the Judge says the act of June 1, 1907, was an amendment to prior acts on the same subjects, the prior act being picked up bodily and thrown into the act of June 1, 1907, by reference to its title only.

The constitutionality of the act has yet to be passed upon by the Supreme Court, but the decision by Judge Bell is a serious setback to the advocates of pure food and to the work of Dairy and Food Commissioner Foust.

Judge Bell decided that the law violates Article 3, Section 4 of the State Constitution. His decision says in part: "How can a Judge be supposed to take official notice of some bulletin issued by the United States Pure Food Commissioner? Possibly after he had directed the conviction of a defendant he would discover that the United States Pure Food Commissioner had changed his rulings and the conviction was wrong. To allow the law to be determined by such bulletins would be to render confusion twice confounded.

"The act of 1907 deals unfairly with wholesalers and jobbers in Pennsylvania. If such parties give a guaranty to a retailer and the goods are adulterated they can be prosecuted forthwith in this State. But suppose the retailer buys from a wholesaler in the city of New York? The goods are found to be adulterated.

"All the remedy the Pure Food Department of the State of Pennsylvania has is to notify the Pure Food Department of the United States of such adulteration and it is very conceivable that in the crush of business in the United States courts in the city of New York no prosecution would ever be tried against the New York wholesaler who sold the adulterated goods, consequently he could afford to sell goods at a much lower rate than our own Pennsylvania wholesalers and jobbers because the chances would be that he would never be tried for selling adulterated goods."

Pickpockets Were Busy.

The large crowds at Hecla park on Tuesday proved to be easy picking for the members of the lightfingered gentry and quite a few persons were relieved of considerable cold cash. Some time during the day when there was plenty doing to attract the attention of all several of our citizens who always carry a little of the long green on their personages had their pockets picked and have no knowledge of when or how it disappeared. Among those who were tapped for their purses were John G. Dubbs, John G. Bailey and D. F. Fortney. James Krebs of Milesburg, was also relieved of some of his coin. While none of these parties lost a real large amount they do not approve of giving it up in this manner.

While getting on the train in rush to go to his home in Lock Haven, E. C. Decker had a purse containing $125 taken from his pocket, but detected the man in the act and recovered the purse. A gentleman from Mill Hall was also touched for a small amount. Two arrests were made for smuggling and selling booze on the grounds. The parties were given a hearing before a justice at Hublersburg and were later brought to Bellefonte.

T L Rimert

T. Lloyd Rimert, a former resident of Howard, died at the Danville hospital for the insane Friday morning. Mr. Rimert had been taken to that institution last spring, his health having been impaired since that time. He was a son of Wm. and Jane Rimert and was aged about 39 years. He is survived by his wife, parents, one son and one sister.

The remains are expected to arrive in Howard this evening and burial will be made from the train. Interment in the Schenck cemetery.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE
Makes Kidneys and Bladder Right

The Prig and His Cane.

In the number of the Tatler for Oct. 6, 1709, it is observed that "a cane is part of the dress of a prig" (this, by the way, shows the erroneous notion prevalent that "priggishness" is a modern word) "and always worn upon a button, for fear he should be thought to have an occasion for it or be esteemed really and not genteelly a cripple."

In the number of Nov. 18 a rural squire in town is sketched who is the prototype of one of the pavement nuisances: "His arms naturally swung at an unreasonable distance from his sides, which, with the advantage of a cane that he brandished in a great variety of irregular motions, made it unsafe for any one to walk within several yards of him."

And under date of Dec. 5 there is an amusing sketch of "a lively, fresh colored young man" who was among the applicants to Isaac Bickerstaff's court of censorship for license to use "canes, perspective glasses, snuffboxes, orange flower waters and the like ornaments of life." This young man had his cane hanging on his fifth button and was "an Oxford scholar who was just entered at the temple."

A Wedding Superstition.

It has been considered unlucky to be married in May ever since the days of Ovid, and those people who have spent their time in looking up roots and reasons have given what they consider to be the origin of the superstition as follows:

In ancient Rome there was held in May a festival called the Lemuria, or feast of the Lemures, which was a ceremony in honor of the speeches of departed souls. It became with the Romans what we should call "bad form" to have matrimonial feasts at the season of a solemn ritual, being no doubt thought to be an insult to the dead to marry at such a time. From this a number of stories grew of the revenge made by the outraged ghosts upon those who dared to disregard them, and if anything unfortunate happened to a couple who had been married in May it would, of course, have been put down to retribution. So the tradition of ill luck arose, and its influence has lasted ever since, even to our time.

Towed by a Halibut.

About the mouths of the streams on which salmon camps are situated the Indian dogs and children amuse themselves catching the fish. Some of the youngsters are so small that after they have succeeded in cornering a fish the combined efforts of the party are often required to dispatch it and carry it to camp. I have watched dogs running about in a rift snapping at the salmon and apparently having the time of their lives.

One of the most amusing sights that I saw during my stay in Alaska was two Indian boys being towed about the harbor at Kadiak by a huge halibut they had just hooked. Utterly unable to land the fish, they had fastened the line to the stern of the boat, and while they pulled with all their might, each one at an oar, they rallied each other for not exerting more strength and shouted loudly for help. Finally an Indian put out in a boat, and the fish was landed.—Forest and Stream.

Bewildering France.

There are in France two Bordeaux, the one in the Gironde and a tiny place in the Loiret. There are two Toulouses, the old town in the Haute-Garonne and Toulouse du Jura, a village with 600 inhabitants, near Lons-le-Saunier. There is Tours in Touraine, Balzac's Tours in the Indre-et-Loire and Tours, a village in Savoy, near Albertville. There are seven St. Cyrs simple St. Cyrs, that is, and twenty-four with something tacked on to them; seven St. Denises and forty-seven with some addition, fourteen St. Germains and 114 with something tacked on.

Great Lovers of Water.

The Siamese are more devoted to the water than any other nation in the world. They are nearly always bathing, generally with their clothes on, and they never go anywhere by land if they can possibly go by water. The streets of Bangkok are like those of Venice, and the inhabitants say that their idea of paradise would be a town with canals where there were currents in both directions, so that they might be spared the effort of rowing.

The Sorrow of It.

"It's too bad," observed the man who seemed to be thinking aloud.

"What's too bad?" queried the party who had overheard the observation.

"That our neighbors always know when we have fried onions for supper, but never get next when we have strawberries and ice cream," explained the noisy thinker.—Chicago News.

The Weather.

"Do you think there is any reliable way of foretelling the weather?"

"Yep," answered Farmer Corntossel. "Jes' think of the kind you don't want and then prophesy it."—Washington Star.

Pull of It.

Mrs. Caterby—In a short time now we will do all our heating by alcohol.

Caterby—That's good. All we'll have to do will be to connect your Uncle Jake to the furnace and range.—Life.

Foolish Question.

"Why, my boy, did you fall in that open coal hole?"

"Not course not. I was in here, an' they built a pavement over me."—Illustrated Bits.

THE FIREMEN'S CONVENTION

Annual Gathering of the Central District Held at Philipsburg

BIG CROWD ATTENDED

Visitors to the Mountain Town Found Plenty to Entertain Them. Weather Was Ideal

NEXT CONVENTION AT JERSEY SHORE

The sixteenth annual convention of the Central Pennsylvania District Volunteer Firemen's association assembled in Philipsburg Thursday, holding its sessions in the Odd Fellows hall. The meeting was called to order at 11:30, with the president, Frank Weber, of that place, in the chair.

Burgess J. W. Stein welcomed the firemen to the city and gave them assurance of freedom during their stay. J. C. Barclay, of Clearfield, in behalf of the association responded in a characteristic and able manner.

The roll call showed 34 companies and 79 member represented, or a total of 114 delegates. Two new companies were admitted, viz: the Rodgers Fire Co. No. 2, of Juniata, and the Fourth Ward Fire Co., of DuBois. This makes a total of 37 companies in the association. At noon the convention adjourned until 1.40

At the afternoon session the report of the committee of topics was read and ably discussed by the different members of the convention. R. M. Gochnour, of Windber, was recommended for vice-president of the State association.

Jersey Shore was selected as the place for holding the next convention. Weber, of Philipsburg, was elected delegate to the state convention and H. L. Morgan, of that place was elected as alternate.

The following newly elected officers were installed before the adjournment of the business session:

President, James Blackwell, of Jersey Shore; First Vice President, C. A. Hoover, Bellwood; Second Vice President, Harry Tantlinger, DuBois; Treasurer, Frank W. Grebe, Philipsburg; Secretary W. C. Langsford, Houtzdale.

The annual banquet to the delegates took place in the evening at 6 o'clock at Grays Hall, and was served by the ladies of the Church of Christ. It was an elaborate affair, the menu being very fine. About 150 persons were present. Hon. P. E. Womelsdorff was toast master Addresses were made by Rev. Henry Mitchell, that city; W. Harrison Walker, Esq., Bellefonte, R. T. Hickman, of Windber, and J. C. Barclay, of Clearfield. The latters address included also a speech in which he presented to the retiring president, Frank Weber, in behalf of the association, a beautiful traveling satchel. The banquet was made still more enjoyable by beautiful piano selections rendered by Miss Jeannette Hollenback.

The parade took place Friday forenoon and there were about 2,000 firemen in line. The afternoon was devoted to athletics at Athletic park and each evening a home talent play "The Isle of Folly" was given.

The weather was very favorable to the firemen and the attendance was the largest in the history of the association.

When the Jap Saw us Play.

So you will bear with Mr. Tigo if his account errs through excess of impressionism. Says he: "One strongarm gentleman called a Pitch is hired to throw. Another gentleman called a Stop is responsible for whatever that Hon. Pitch throw to him, so he protect himself from wounding by sofa-pillows which he wear on hands. Another gentleman called a Striker stand in front of that stop and hold up club to fright off that Hon. Pitch from angry rage of throwing things. Hon. Pitch in hand hold on base ball of unripe condition of hardness. He raise that arm lofty—then twist—O sudden! He shoot them bullet-ball straight to breast of Hon. Stop. Hon. Striker swing club for vain effort. It is a miss and them dealthly ball shoot Hon. Stop in gloves. Sunc onrel Dercy Hon, Umperor, a person who is there to gossip about it in a loud voice."

Twain's Emancipation.

An honorary degree was once conferred on Mark Twain by a humble institution in a Missouri town that had known him when he was playing Tom Sawyer there in real life.

It happened that the degree conferring cermonies took place one lazy day in June when newspapers generally were suffering from a total collapse of everything in the way of news.

One New York news editor raked the land with a figurative fine tooth comb and got a dry haul for his pains. Then, recalling that Mark Twain was getting his honorary degree that very day, it occurred to him that a message direct from the famous author might relieve the situation in the news. After much scratching of the editorial idea factory he evolved this query, which was transmitted to Mark Twain by wire:

How does it feel to be a doctor of laws? Please wire answer at our expense.

After a wait of several hours this characteristic response came hot over the wire from Missouri:

It feels like emancipation from ignorance and vice. MARK TWAIN.

Riding a Camel in the Desert.

Dr. Nachtigal, the celebrated African explorer, was the guest of a rich Hamburg merchant. The merchant's son, a young man of a somewhat sentimental temperament, said among other things that his dearest wish was to ride across the desert on the back of a camel. He thought such a ride must be very poetical indeed.

"My dear young friend," replied the explorer, "I can tell you how you can get a partial idea of what riding a camel on the deserts of Africa is like. Take an office stool, screw it up as high as possible and put it in a wagon without any springs. Then seat yourself on the stool and have it driven over rocky and uneven ground during the hottest weather of July or August and after you have not had anything to eat or drink for twenty-four hours, and then you will get a faint idea of how delightfully poetic it is to ride on a camel in the wilds of Africa."

He Gave Her a Present.

When I was a young man Lady Jersey was one of the leaders of fashion, and her house was the resort of politicians and others. With her lived her daughter, Lady Clementine Villiers, a handsome and clever girl. The custom had been established that all friends should give the latter a present on her birthday, and these presents were set out in an antechamber. Among these friends was Lord Brougham, then an old man. He called on a birthday, but had forgotten what the occasion was, and had brought no present. Seeing a mass of presents laid out, he seized one of them and took it in as his present, rightly counting that the young lady would not remember that it was one that already had been given to her. And very proud he was of his presence of mind. But, then, he was an ex-lord chancellor.—London Truth.

Many Languages of Mexico.

During the fiesta of Christmas or the week of All Souls and All Saints, when the Indians swarm down from the mountains with their holiday wares for sale, visitors in the City of Mexico may notice the strange language that the venders use in addressing each other. Even when they turn to serve the purchaser their Spanish is neither Castilian nor Mexican, but is frequently broken by peculiar syllables and accents. This is merely an illustration of the fact that the Indian languages of old Mexico have not been entirely submerged by the conquering Spanish, and in some of the most remote districts of the republic various and distinct languages handed down from the pre-Columbian era are still spoken in their pristine purity by many tribe members.—Mexican Herald.

Easy House Moving.

House moving is an easy task among the Lakas, a tribe living near the Lagone river, in the French Kongo, Africa. This tribe, which is one of the most superb examples of the savage black race, lives in conical shaped huts constructed of plaits of tough straw. When a change in location is desired, both the women and the men put their shoulders to the task and carry the roofs of their homes to the new site, sometimes many miles distant. The circular walls of the huts are rebuilt.

Born That Way.

There is perhaps no point on which the librarian and child disagree so entirely as that of the proper condition of the hands. A child whose hands were black with dirt solemnly stated, "I was born that way." Another declared that the doctor said "he must not wash his hands till the weather got warmer." Another whispered, "Teacher, that's the color of my skin."

A boy who brought back a book with its cover soiled and greasy refused to pay the fine and finally brought his mother in to speak in his behalf. We had been very unjust and unkind to her boy, she said, "for he is very careful. He puts his book in the icebox, where the baby can't get it, and nothing but our food and Willie's books ever goes in that icebox."—Library Journal.

A Pew Sufficed.

Sir James Crichton-Browne was sent on a mission to Jamaica in connection with the British colonial office. While at Kingston he had an encounter with a colored but very humble official. Sir James, a strenuous sanitarian and an ardent Scot, was keenly interested in the Scottish population of the island. "Do you have many Scotsmen in these parts?" he asked of the official. The darky thought for a moment and then answered, "Not many; just a few, but enough." Sir James collapsed.

Centre and Clinton League

Two championship games and one exhibition game were played by the teams of the Centre and Clinton league on Saturday. The games were evidently better played than the fine exhibition of the base ball profession at Hecla park on the day of the Business Men's picnic. The scores were in a regular domino order, being 3-2, 2-1 and 1-0.

Snow Shoe and Orvis having played one of their games at the park last Tuesday, played an exhibition game at Lock Haven on Saturday, which resulted in one of the lowest and closest scores of any game of the season, Snow Shoe winning from the Mountaineers 1-0.

The Woolpickers added another fleece to their record when they sheared a victory from Mill Hall Saturday. Both these teams were in the best condition and played professional ball. The score was 3-2.

Howard lost to the Red Roses at Beech Creek in the afternoon by an error. Shay was in the box for Howard and Peck for Beech Creek. The Howard batters could not connect with Peck's curves and they were held down to one run. The muffing of a fly by one of the Howard players lost them the game. Shay pitched a good game for the Millionaires. The final result was 2-1 in Beeck Creek's favor.

New Steel a Success.

Fifty tons of Vadium steel has been rolled successfully at the Worth Bros.' steel plant at Coatesville. Vadium has been discovered in South Africa and is under the control of the American Vadium Company, who furnished the Coatesville firm with the necessary quantity for all the tests so far made.

The idea of the makers of the new steel is to use it for the construction of steam boilers, especially locomotives. Steel plate now used tests 60,000 pounds to the square inch, while the Vadium steel will test to 80,000. The harder the steel, less tensile strength it has, and by the use of Vadium, strength is added with brittleness. It is said that the new steel will wear longer and boilers can be made of lighter plate and have the same durability. Vadium in steel does not change its appearance.

Lock Haven Hospital Benefit.

The Hospital Ladies' Society of Lock Haven are making strenuous efforts to secure the amount of money necessary to commence work on the erection of a new building to replace the one recently destroyed by fire, and they are meeting with great success. They have arranged for a vaudeville performance on Thursday and Friday evenings, of this week and cordially invite the people of this town to patronize the affair. Reserved seats are 50 cents, and may be procured in advance by phoning to MacDonald's Bee Hive store, Lock Haven—either phone. Out of town people will be given the preference for Friday's performance if orders are received before 6 o'clock Thursday.

The finest talent in Lock Haven will participate in the programme and an evening of rare enjoyment is promised. The performance is under the management of Mrs. Samuel MacDonald, who has had considerable experience in amateur theatrical affairs in New York City, and a first-class show is guaranteed. Some of the Society Buds will dispose lemonade and souvenir fans during the performance.

Good Play on the Road.

A company has been formed and incorporated with abundant capital for the purpose of sending on tour a dramatized version of George Barr McCutcheon's popular novel "Graustark," which was presented in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and a few of the other leading cities last season.

The tour will be under the personal direction of A. G. Delameter, who, for a number of years was identified with Fred C. Whitney's attractions, including Mme. Shumann-Heink, Mme. Blauvelt, Lulu Glaser, "Quo Vadis," and who, for the past two seasons has been directing the "Land of Nod." Mr. James W. Castle, who for several years was the general stage direction for Fred C. Whitney's attractions will stage "Graustark" and act as the manager of the company, which in itself is a guarantee of the excellence of the performance.

Look Out for this Man

John A. Shoemaker, of Williamsport, was victimized to the tune of two $14 steamer rugs and a dollar suit case recently. The swindler who did the trick is a very genteel looking chap, and gave his name as W. T. Smith. He gave Mr. Shoemaker a check on the First National bank at Hawley, but there being no funds therin the check was returned protested. Mr. Shoemaker addressed a letter of injuiry to the Hawley bank, and received the following reply from V. A. Decker, cashier.

"He is a pretty swindler who had beaten parties at Bangor, Allentown, Shamokin, Shenandoah, Mt. Carmel, Lewisburg and Hazelton out of $500 or $600 in the last two months. Moves rapidly, and is hard to catch."

The swindler is quite tall, a blonde, dresses nattily and wears a light moustache.

MAKING VINEGAR.

There are but few orchardists whose apples are of so uniformly good quality that there are not quite a per cent that will have to be disposed of in some way other than shipping to market. One of the best ways of disposing of this fruit is the making of it into vinegar. In the conversion of cider into vinegar there are two separate chemical processes. The first is the change of the sugar in the apples into alcohol and the second the changing of this alcohol into vinegar or acetic acid. The first process is effected by a species of organism similar to yeast, while a different form of bacteria life converts the alcohol into vinegar. Since sugar is the basis of vinegar it goes without saying that apples which contain the most of it will produce the most as well as the best quality of vinegar. It is on this account that green and immature fruit has so little value in making vinegar. Bulletin No. 259 of the New York experiment station recommends the following as one of the most satisfactory methods of making vinegar: When the cider is pressed from the apples the barrels should be filled about two-thirds full and the bung replaced by a loose plug of cotton, which will lessen evaporation and keep out bugs and dirt. Where the quantity of vinegar to be made is considerable the barrels should be placed in a room where the temperature can be kept at from 70 to 80 degrees during the fall and early winter months. If the batch is small the barrels may be left out of doors while the weather is warm and then placed in the warmest room convenient and later placed in a dry cellar.

If the temperature of the storeroom does not fall below 45 degrees the conversion of the sugar into alcohol will require about six months, but the process of fermentation may be hastened by an addition of fresh commercial yeast. When the cider has quit working the clear portion should be drawn off, the barrel rinsed out, the liquid replaced, with the addition of from two to four quarts of good vinegar containing some mother. The next process, the change of the alcohol into acetic acid, may be effected in three months and may require two years. In any event, it will take place most rapidly in a temperature ranging from 65 to 75 degrees. When the vinegar has reached the proper strength, which should be 5 per cent of acetic acid, the barrels should be filled full and tightly corked. This will prevent other changes and will cause the vinegar to keep its strength. If one has considerable vinegar to make it would be well for him to secure the bulletin referred to, which is obtainable at small cost.

AN EASY WAY.

A New England physician who is fond of raising poultry, but has little time to devote to the work, has inaugurated what is styled the "easy method" of raising chicks, wherein he feeds them but twice a week. He has the brooders so arranged that the little fellows have access to grass and to fresh water, charcoal and grits. The feed is the common chick feed, consisting of several kinds of grains, and is scattered in layers of litter, from which the chicks have to scratch it out. This furnishes them needed exercise and is a feature that they much enjoy. Experiments conducted by this physician with chicks of the same breed hatched at the same time, but having their feed placed in boxes so that they could get it without digging for it, showed that the youngsters which had to scratch for their living were not only stronger and healthier than the others, but increased in weight from 20 to 25 per cent faster. If the results of this man's experiments hold out in the practice of others a good many folks will be going into the poultry business who have kept out of it heretofore because of the frequency of the attention required in caring for the growing chicks after the usual manner.

CANCERS AND BOVINE TUBERCULOSIS.

While radical and severe methods often have to be restored to remove a cancerous growth from the human system, the end seems to justify the means. It is much the same way with this matter of bovine tuberculosis. Some dairymen seem to think that the matter can be best solved by temporizing and not applying drastic measures. But as with the cancer the situation goes from bad to worse with delay. If a farmer's herd is affected with tuberculosis the most sensible and cheapest measures for him to pursue in the long run, as well as that which is most commendable from the standpoint of the public weal, is to weed out the diseased cows and start on a new basis. It may require moral courage to do this, but it would seem to be the only right course to pursue.

In much the same way that a sharp ax is more efficient than a dull one does the educated person have the advantage over the one who is not.

Chickens of the male sex that do not possess sufficient merit to head breeding pens fulfill their destiny most completely when they adorn a platter cut in convenient pieces or grace a baking dish heels in the air. They are useless and expensive if handled in any other way.

It is a noticeable fact that the farmers who are usually most troubled with the weed nuisance are the ones who are least concerned with keeping up the fertility of their farms. Slipshod agricultural methods, lack of proper cultivation of soil and a failure to rotate crops are the conditions under which weeds hold high revel and do their worst work.

While it is questionable if the feeding of concentrated feeds, such as cornmeal, bran, shorts and oilmeal, pays when pastures are flush, it is well to feed moderately of them to tide the cows over the period of slack short feed in midsummer until the September rains renew the grass. If the milk flow is kept up in this way during this period it is likely to continue well into the winter.

Observation of quite a good many drivers and horses leads to the conclusion that a horse of considerable life and spirit, inclined perhaps to be skittish, often gets his cue in the matter of taking fright at traction engine, auto or other object from the driver's fear that he will be afraid. An excitable and quick tempered driver has the effect of stirring his horse up and making a bad matter worse, while the cool and quiet horseman by speaking a kind, reassuring word tends to calm his horse and remove his fears.

The wisdom of a scant feeding of new corn to pigs until the grain is thoroughly mature and their systems have become adjusted to the diet can hardly be urged too strongly. While new corn may not be the direct cause of hog cholera and probably is not, there is at the same time no question that if the digestive apparatus of the pig becomes disarranged as a result of eating too much of this ration its system is rendered much less able to withstand the attacks of disease germs which may be present all the time, but are kept in check by a vigorous condition of health. There is at least this connection between feeding green corn in excess and the several ailments which are often styled hog cholera. It is well to keep the connection in mind.

An apple buyer of Bentonville, Ark., which is located in the northwest corner of the state and in Benton county, which is said to produce more apples than any single county in the world, told us recently that the apple crop in that section was almost totally destroyed this season as a result of very heavy rains, which fell at frequent intervals during blossoming time, washing the pollen from the blossoms and rendering a proper fertilization of them impossible. While damage from this cause is less frequent and usually less extensive than that from frost, it is likely to be quite complete when it does occur. As a result of this situation in the Benton county locality buyers in that section will this year go to New York to pack their winter apples.

A ride along country roads makes one pleased with the enterprise of those farm owners who take pride enough in their places to have the name of the farm, together with that of the proprietor, painted on a signboard over the driveway leading to the house or, if the barn is near the highway, painted in an attractive manner on this. This is not only a convenience to passersby who are interested in learning where folks live, but serves a sort of incentive to the farm owner to make his place neat and attractive, worthy of the name he has given it and a credit to himself as the owner. It is much the same with the farm that is named as with the brand of goods which have an established reputation with the public because of the trademark they bear. We believe that if more farms were labeled, as it were, proprietors would feel an increased pride in them and would take special pains to make them worthy of the name.

The county in which the writer lives is not far from the center of what may be termed the oat belt, which cereal, with corn, timothy and clover, constitutes the chief crop. Some results from this year's thrashing contain data which may be of value in other localities. Among these is the fact that this year the early oats, chiefly the Early Champion variety, were well filled and sound, weighing thirty-two pounds or better to the bushel and yielding from forty-five to fifty-five bushels to the acre, while the late or yellow oats are weighing from eighteen to twenty-seven pounds and yielding from twenty-five to forty bushels per acre. The difference in quality and yield seems to be due to the fact that the early oats matured and had filled before a period of unfavorable weather came on which developed rust and later shriveled the berry. While a period of unfavorable weather does not always catch the late oats, there is considerable likelihood of this if damaging conditions develop at all. As a result of thrashing records this year there will be many who this season sowed nothing but late oats who will next year devote a portion of the small grain land to the early varieties, and this notwithstanding the fact that haying operations may have to be hustled to begin harvest on time.

Hog raisers have been remarkably immune of late from the ravages of hog cholera and have been enjoying a pretty good harvest time, barring the panicky prices of last winter and spring.

Judging from dry weather conditions prevailing in so many sections of the country, it begins to look as if those who predicted that this would be the first in a cycle of dry years were not very far out of the way even if conditions prevailing in May and June did serve in a measure to discredit their prophecies.

Recently a western judge granted a divorce on the grounds of ill temper and bad breath, holding that these defects were sufficient for a severing of the marital bonds. While the grounds he took may be called in question, if either of the ailments mentioned were remediable there would seem to be some justification for his attitude.

There is conclusive evidence forthcoming from observation of child life that ten months is none too early a period in which to begin to make them mind. When they have been allowed to have their own way for two or three years, a common practice with many, they have acquired a mind and will of their own that the parent finds it very difficult and often embarrassing to counteract.

The same principles that hold true in the cultivation of corn or other tilled crops apply to the cultivation of the orchard trees. The stirring of the soil not only holds in check the development of many forms of insect life, but places at the disposal of the trees a maximum amount of humus and soil moisture, which is of especial value in a dry season. In the case of the trees the cultivation should not be continued later than July 15, which will permit the growth of sufficient vegetation to serve as a sort of cover crop, which will hold the snow in winter.

Great Britain imports annually butter to the value of $100,000,000. Of this amount Denmark furnishes nearly one-half. Siberia is credited with $15,000,000 worth, while other nations contribute amounts decreasing in the order named: France, New Zealand, Sweden, Netherlands, Canada and the United States. The reason for the exportation of so small an amount of butter from this country is due to the fact that in no country in the world is the standard of living so high and so enormous an amount of first class butter consumed. The only way for butter exports to be increased is for more men to go into the dairy business.

The farmer or gardener having quantities of fruit or vegetables to sell can safeguard his interests and help his pocketbook by keeping in touch with market conditions at leading nearby points. In no way can he do this more satisfactorily than by taking some good produce paper. Bulls and bears and sometimes sharks get in their work in the reports which appear in these publications, but the discerning reader can sift out the truth and from the extremes draw a pretty satisfactory conclusion as to the condition of the market. Such papers can be got for a dollar a year, and often in one season one's subscription will be made good to him many times in the information which is thus furnished.

We have received word this year from those in sections not visited by it before of considerable damage by the cherry slug, a pest which, though confining its attention to cherry trees, will also attack plum and some other trees that may be in the immediate vicinity. Since these slugs are leaf eaters they may be easily headed off by giving the trees on which they appear a thorough spraying with an arsenite solution. This may be made by mixing a pound of paris green and two pounds of freshly slaked lime into 200 gallons of water. The poison should be stirred in a small can of water into a fine, nonlumpy paste before being put in the water, while the lime paste should be as fine grained as possible, so that it will not clog the sprayer. In the process of spraying the solution should be stirred at frequent intervals, as the paris green is very heavy and tends to sink to the bottom of the barrel or tank.

Those in charge of the dairy exhibits at the New York state fair at Syracuse have outlined a programme that bids fair to arouse a good deal of interest in dairy and kindred subjects. Among other things through the co-operation of the state fair commission the prize money placed at the disposal of the department is to be $3,000. Prizes will be offered for butter, cheese and market milk and cream, with liberal inducements for specialties, while prizes of $15 and $5 will be given for the best short essays on the following subjects: Bovine tuberculosis, use of skimmilk on the farm, the commercial starter, the best way to start a dairy herd, the improvement of the cheese industry of New York, dairy and milk sanitation, care of milk in the household and how to reduce cost of milk production in the state. In addition to the above, prizes will be given for the best samples of farm made butter. Excellent practical results are bound to come from thus devoting special thought to the dairy problems of the state. The example set might well be followed elsewhere.

A Revelation

It is a revelation to people, the severe cases of lung trouble that have been cured by Foley's Honey and Tar. It not only stops the cough but heals and strengthens the lungs. L. M. Ruggles, Reasnor, Iowa, writes: "The doctors said I had consumption, and I got no better until I took Foley's Honey and Tar. It stopped the hemorrhages and pain in my lungs and they are now as sound as a bullet." Sold by C. M. Parrish.

No one is immune from kidney trouble, so just remember that Foley's Kidney Remedy will stop the irregularities and cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

Caught the General.

One of the regular army officers tells a story of how the old stringent army regulations once went against General Scott. One wet afternoon that soldier was caught in the rain in Washington. He was in full uniform and was well known, so, no cab being near, he borrowed an umbrella. Arriving at his hotel, an underofficer approached him and calmly remarked:

"General, you will consider yourself under arrest for eight days for carrying an umbrella while in full uniform."

His Solicitude.

"Is it a fact that your mother-in-law threw herself out of the third story window and you did nothing to restrain her?"

"Excuse me, I went to the first story to catch her, but she had already passed."—Dia lo Rosa.

Complimentary to Him.

"Really," said Cholly Sappey, "I haven't understood Miss Rood at all. She actually called me a crank."

"The idea!" exclaimed Miss Cutting. "How flattering!"

"Flattering?"

"Yes; a crank, you know, is a man with one idea."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Delays Are Dangerous.

"This milk is sour, and I won't take it," declared the lady.

"That's your own fault, ma'am," retorted the dealer. "I offered it to you day before yesterday when it was fresh, and you wouldn't take it."—Cleveland Leader.

W. B. Reduso CORSETS

The Perfect Corset for Large Women

It places over-developed women on the same basis as their slender sisters. It tapers off the bust, flattens the abdomen, and absolutely reduces the hips from 1 to 5 inches. Not a harness—not a cumbersome affair, no torturing straps, but the most scientific example of corsetry, boned in such a manner as to give the wearer absolute freedom of movement.

New W. B. Reduso No. 770. For large tall women. Made of white coutil. Hose supporters front and sides. Sizes 20 to 36. Price $3.00.

New W. B. Reduso No. 771. Is the same as No. 770, but is made of light weight white batiste. Hose supporters front and sides. Sizes 20 to 36. Price $3.00.

New W. B. Reduso No. 772. For large short women. The same as No. 770, except that the bust is somewhat lower all around. Made of white coutil, hose supporters front and sides. Sizes 20 to 36. Price $3.00.

New W. B. Reduso No. 773, is the same as No. 772, but is made of light weight white batiste. Hose supporters front and sides. Sizes 20 to 36. Price $3.00.

Ask any dealer anywhere to show you the new W. B. "hip-subduing" models, which will produce the correct figure for prevailing modes, or any of our numerous styles which are made in such a variety as to guarantee perfect fit for every type of figure.

EDITORIAL.

ATTENTION VOTERS

It should be born in mind by every Republican voter that Wednesday, September 2 is the last day for registering for the November election. The registration officer will be at the regular polling place on that day.

BELIEVING that the repeal of the Pure Food law of 1905 was a detriment and the law approved June 1st 1907 is insufficient for the protection of the dairy interests, the Grange committees of the state deem it advisable to have a dairy commissioner appointed to look after a branch of the agricultural pursuits. The dairy interests in this state have grown so large that it deserves the consideration of the legislature.

A HARMLESS PRESIDENT.

One alluring suggestion made by certain followers of Mr. Bryan to secure votes for him is that were he elected president he could do no harm by the application of his radical ideas during the next four years because the Republican senate would stand in his way. It is to be hoped that no wavering voter will be turned away from the Taft banner by any such ridiculous proposition as that. The idea is particularly interesting, however, for several reasons. In the first place it implies that there are qualities of danger to the country in Mr. Bryan's principles and policies. In the next place it practically concedes that, unless he were checked by the legislative branch of the government, he would not hesitate to apply his radical theories if he had the chance, no matter what the effect upon general welfare. If these things be true, then Mr. Bryan's candidacy presents a public menace and no voter should be deluded into encouraging it by way of experiment.

On the other hand, assuming it to be true that Mr. Bryan as president would be powerless to work out his various schemes of radicalism, why make him president at all if he is to be a mere figurehead? If he and his party care to be inept for four years, if they are simply to hold the government offices without accomplishing the legislative reforms which they promise in their platforms then there is really no reason why there should be a change at Washington and voters will do well to reject Bryan and elect Judge Taft.

The fact is that Mr. Bryan is a very live citizen. He would no more idle away four years in the White House than he would fly. If he should be elected he will try to do things from the very day he enters Washington. We do not believe he would attempt anything with the deliberate purpose of injuring the country or the country's business but he has some very positive ideas, notably with respects to the tariff, the corporations and the banks, and if he ever gets under way on these questions he will seriously disturb conditions and may work widespread damage. He has recanted nothing that he advocated 12 and eight years ago.

BUTLER COUNTY automobilists have organized to protect themselves from persecution and to secure the enforcement of the road laws. In so far as this is an effort for the improvement of the Butler county public roads every farmer and property holder should join in the movement.

DOWN in Fulton county, Ga., prisoners from the county jail have built 250 miles of macadamized roads. The prisoners were the better for having work to do, and the public profits by their work. In Pennsylvania, however, we are kept from using prisoners by sentiment.

MR. CROKER is to come back to this country to help campaign for Mr. Bryan. The latter's friends must think that the situation is desperate when they send over to the British aristocracy for help. However, those British always did take kindly to the American free trade party.

SENATOR BEN TILLMAN, over in London, is sending home predictions of Bryan's election. That may be the way it looks in London, but when Senator Tillman gets home he will find it different, and the next President is going to be elected right here in the United States.

THE opening of the Bellefonte Academy on September 9th marks the beginning of the 104 term of this historic school. It is interesting for the young mind to read how the Academy developed from a small school of only 15 pupils to the present advanced institution of learning. It is a monument to the town and those who have gone forth from its halls have just reason to look with pride upon their school days at the Bellefonte Academy.

Because our food is adulterated and there is filth in our milk and ice, it does not follow that we prefer it so. That our poetry is pessimistic and our novels come to bad ends does not prove that we would not read cheerful books if we could get them

THERE is talk of Bellefonte autoists organizing an automobile club. There are about 32 machines in this place alone and the club should include the other autoists of the county. Then let the automobile club push the good road movement in Centre county.

SHOULD the supreme court pronounce the Tustin pure food bill unconstitutional, thus confirming the decision of the Blair county court, the next legislature will be obliged to devote some attention of framing a new act, one free from the objections brought against the act of 1907

THE Republican campaign in Pennsylvania will be formally opened in Wilkes-Barre in September at the state convention of the League of Republican Clubs. The speakers will be Vice Presidential Candidate Sherman, Senators Knox and Penrose, Governor Stuart, Congressman Longworth and State Treasurer Sheatz

WE are in receipt of the centennial number of the Washington, (Pa.) Reporter which was issued last Saturday. There is a vast difference between the issue of August 15, 1908, and the issue of August 15 1808, a fac simile of the early edition having been reproduced in the centennial number. Few papers in Pennsylvania long and honorable career as the Reporter, and the edition of last Saturday is typical of the progressiveness of the present management.

THE SUN, Baltimore's brilliantly edited Democratic newspaper which is now supporting Judge Taft for the presidency, gets off the following searching utterance relative to Mr. Bryan's method of cajoling the public with his glittering generalities: "Fine phrases do not multiply the avenues of employment. Epigrams butter no bread and open no factories. Repartee and ready debate do not raise the scale of wages. The products of the farm are not marketed by eloqnence or fine diction." The Sun also tells him that the greater part of our country's wealth is not "predatory," but is the result of lawful enterprise and honest toil. The Sun has taken the exact measure of the man.

THE Minnesota Democrats have renominated Governor Johnson for a third term and are enthusiastic about it. Mr. Johnson peremptorily declined to be considered a candidate and struggled hard to put himself out of the running but without avail. It may be good politics and, again, it may be bad politics to force a man on the ticket. Governor Johnson is a good man but he must be fearfully disappointed just now when he is asked to be butchered to make a Bryan holiday. The people of Minnesota may or may not once more elect Johnson as their governor. They have a right to select whom they choose, but it should not be forgotten that in the past while electing Johnson the state has gone Republican in other directions. It gave Roosevelt 161,000 plurality, for instance.

RACE wars are always deplorable There is never any justification for them. They are a manifestation of the animal nature in man which carry whole communities back to their pagan ancestors, and to an age when brute passions ruled society in place of law and order. At the same time, race feeling has never been wholly eradicated at any time from human consciousness. It lies dormant, and is even forgotten until some shocking event transpires to hurl it instantly into action. It is universally present, no matter how soundly it may be sleeping, how covertly hidden. A month ago, no doubt, the citizens or Springfield would have been as loud as any to denounce the lynching parties and the race clashes in the South. They never thought in a short time hundreds, perhaps thousands, of them would be transformed into pagans. The dastardly attempt to burn the home of Abraham Lincoln has aroused the indignation of the country and the people will not be satisfied unless the ringleaders of the mob shall be severly punished.

Female Fire Fighters

Misses Sara Sexton and Alice Shroat, two popular Lock Haven young ladies deserve a medal for the gallant work they accomplished one day recently in extinguishing a fire which threatened to destroy the home of John Fortney, near Mackeyville, where the young ladies were visiting at the time. When discovered by the young ladies the roof and one side of the rear portion of the house was ablaze, and while Mrs. Fortney rang the large bell in the yard to summon the men from the field, the young ladies went to work carrying water from a spring near by and with the assistance of a young lady at the house who went upon the roof, managed to get the flames under control, but unfortunately the spring was drained before the flames were extinguished. Apparently baffled when the demon was almost conquered, the young ladies seized a pick and were ripping the burning weather boards from the side of the house, when the men who had been summoned from the field by the ringing of the bell rushed upon the scene, and in a short time subdued the flames.

But for the quick action of the young ladies from Lock Haven it is believed the house would have been destroyed

Will Probated.

The will of the late James Harris was probated this week. It was quite lengthy and two codicils were attached. With the exception of two $500 bequests the property is left in his wife's trust during her life time. To his wife absolutely he left the residence on Spring street, the stock in the Centre County bank, the stock in the Bellefonte Electric Co., the stock in the First National bank and his personal property. To J. Harris Olewine, absolutely, he bequeated a $500 bond of the United Telephone Co. and to Samuel Harris Shaymaker, of Newton, Ill., he bequeathed a $500 bond of the Central Railroad of Penna. At the death of his wife the following bequests will be effective: The Harris block, occupied by the Potter-Hoy Hardware Co., and a dwelling house on North Water street to his brother Dr. George F. Harris, $3000 to J. Harris Hoy, $2000 to the Bellefonte hospital, $2000 to the Bellefonte Academy, $1000 to John M. Shugert, Sallie and Maude Irvin, of Mifflintown, $2,000 to be divided equally between them, and to Anna Hoy and Agnes Orbison the dwelling house adjoining the Harris residence on Spring St.

Mrs. George L. Murphy.

Mrs. George L. Murphy, of Philadelphia, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Ralph Mallory, of this place, died in that city Friday afternoon, about five o'clock. On Monday of last week she gave birth to a healthy baby boy, following which complications lead to her death at the time stated.

Mrs. Murphy was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Butler, of Philadelphia, and was aged 23 years. She was married to George L. Murphy on May 22, 1907, and visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mallory when on their honeymoon trip. While here she gained many friends who were grieved to hear of her untimely death. She was a member of one of the Baptist churches of Philadelphia and a woman of many pleasing ways and traits of character. She is survived by her father, the infant boy and a number of brothers and sisters.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Murphy home 2822 Oxford street, Philadelphia, and interment was made in the American Mechanic cemetery.

Fat Crabapples and Died.

Roy Henry the 14-year-old son of Patrolman Henry, of Lewisburg died Friday, almost immediately after climbing a tree and eating crabapples. An autopsy was held, which conclusively showed that death was due to eating the fruit.

Roy was visiting at McClure, Snyder county, and climbed a tree to feast on crabapples. He had consumed several when he fell from the tree and died in great agony in less than 10 minutes.

The reason an autopsy was held was because a fire nearby had scorched branches and partially roasted the fruit on one side of the tree.

Henderson—Wilkinson.

M. J. Henderson, of Taylor township, and Mrs. Mary E. Wilkinson, of Osceola, were married at the home of the groom on Wednesday afternoon, August 12, by Rev. G. W. Shires. The groom is one of Taylor township's successful farmers, and the bride is one of Osceola's estimable young ladies whose large circle of friends wish them success and a happy married life.

A Famous Poison Mystery.

England had a famous poison mystery in the last century. Two members of a great club in Manchester, both men of position and keen politicians, each received, apparently as a New Year's gift, small boxes containing a few cigars of the very highest quality apparently. Both were taken fearfully ill after smoking, and one of them subsequently died. The cigars were found to be loaded with poison, and it was said that the man who recovered only did so because he used a cigar holder. The facts were at first hushed up, because, as was said, the suspected sender, whose motive was revenge on account of a lady, was a man of wealth and power. But this subject was cleared, and the mystery was deepened by the following circumstances: A rich Manchester merchant, traveling one day in a railway car about the time of the incident related, got into conversation with a most agreeably and highly cultivated stranger, who finally offered his cigar case. The Manchester man was found at Leeds almost unconscious and the only occupant of the carriage. He grasped in one of his convulsed hand the cigar he had been smoking, and after analysis showed it to be identical with the others. He recovered, but the stranger was never discovered.

Easy Way to Be Generous.

In a church of a New England village was an old man who had all the Christian graces save one, and that was the grace of liberality. He would do anything in the world for the cause of religion but give up his money. At the close of the financial year 1869 the church found itself $400 in debt. A church meeting was called, and it was voted to circulate a subscription paper on the spot and endeavor to thus raise the sum needed. This was done, and the old gentleman did not put his name on the paper. The result was rather disheartening, $200 only having been pledged. Silence reigned for a moment, when one of the most generous men in the church moved that "we double our subscriptions." Instantly the old gentleman was on his feet and with extraordinary fervor cried, "I second the motion."

He evidently felt that he was thus doing his part in hastening a most desirable result.

Would Follow His Example.

After the battle of Prestonpans a witty Scottish farmer amused himself by writing a ballad upon it, which so stung one of the English officers, who had behaved very basely on the occasion, that he sent the poet a challenge to meet him at H. for mortal combat.

The second found the farmer busy with his hayfork and at once delivered the challenge of the redoubtable hero. The good natured farmer, turning toward him with the agricultural implement, coolly said:

"Gang awa' back to Mester Smith and tell him I hae nae time to come to H. to gie him satisfaction, but that if he likes to come here I'll tak' a look at him, and if I think I can fecht (fight) him I'll fecht him, and if I think I canna fecht him I'll just do as he did—I'll run away."

His Inspiration.

The negro brass band connected with the traveling troupe was blatting a tune in its characteristic slap bang style in front of the theater when a dusky cornet player who had been sulking all day suddenly quit blowing and did not resume.

"Say, Mose," demanded the leader in the ensuing pause, "ain't yo' workin' any mo'?"

"Ah is w'en Ah gits de inspiration," retorted the sulky musician, throwing the whites of his eyes across at the leader.

"W'en am dat?"

"W'en Ah gits mah las' week's pay."
—Kansas City Independent.

Conscientious About It.

"Mr. Glizzard," asked the caller, "are you carrying all the life insurance you can afford?"

"No," answered the man at the desk. "I can afford more, and I had expected to take out more, but from a note I got from my employer this morning I have begun to suspect that I'm carrying a good deal more than I am worth."—Chicago Tribune.

The following letter was received at this office recently and will doubtless appeal to all regardless of political affiliation on account of its earnestness. Her request has been complied with but the "speech" will not be published at least before she has recited it at the Williams reunion. The letter:

Julian, Aug. 20, 1908.

Earle C. Tuten.

DEAR SIR:

As I am a little girl of 10 years old and have been speaking in public since I was 5 years old I would ask you if you would please send me a speech about Taft for to speak it at the Williams reunion in two weeks. Just about three verses if you will oblige me without charging me. I want a speech about our next president Taft and I didn't know how to get it unless I would write to you as I am a little republican girl, amd would like to have a speech about Taft. I will close.

He is a boy ten years of age and takes with him one of his chums and rows up and down Bald Eagle creek the same as a boat that cost money and the best of make. He carries his boat to and from the creek on his head. The next will be a flying machine or air ship, that will equal any ever built by a boy. For a boy so young he displays great mechanical talent and he may in time produce some great invention.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or billousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes, that has any such professional endorsement,—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

A booklet of extracts from eminent, medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Paulton's Prisoner.

By W. F. Bryan.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Absurd as it may seem, Edith Mortimer had run away from happiness.

Realizing that Guy Paulton was determined to marry her, she had looked into the commanding eyes and surveyed the determined chin and had fled in a panic to the mountains after artfully announcing that she was bound for the shore.

This was not because she did not want to marry Paulton. To the contrary, the prospect thrilled her with tender delight, but what she did want was another social season without ties of any sort. She did not want to retire to the ranks of engaged girls and wallflowers after only one year's triumph as the belle of the season.

Guy, on the contrary, seemed determined to be married at once, and as a last resort she had fled to escape his proposal. From babyhood Guy had had a masterful way, and Edith knew that if she stopped to argue she was lost.

Her old chum, Belle Manton, who was going to Beach Haven, forwarded Edith's mail and otherwise helped to maintain the polite but obvious fiction.

Loyally she strove to protect her friend's secret, and, though Paulton alternately begged and threatened, he could gain no hint of Edith's whereabouts. Edith smiled at the desperate letters he wrote, but she carefully saved them in her little rosewood traveling desk, and could Paulton have seen the tender light in her eyes as she reread them in the quiet of the summer nights he would have been content. The trouble was that Paulton could not see, and he was putting in a most uncomfortable summer.

Oddly enough, Edith was really enjoying her runaway vacation. She had stumbled on a quaint village far from the haunts of fashion. In simple gowns and with her hair in braids she rejoiced at the freedom from dress and social routine that had been her portion all winter. In her gingham sunbonnet she might have passed for the daughter of a farmer, and for the moment Guy Paulton took her to be such when he came upon her in the little woodland where Edith spent most of her time. Her back was turned to him as he parted the bushes and trampled down the ferns.

Edith started at the sound of his voice, but promptly drew the all concealing bonnet down in front and managed to stammer an answer to his question if she had seen any soldiers about.

For the first time she noticed that he was in uniform, and she immediately realized that the rough service dress was most becoming. Paulton was built in heroic mold, and, though he looked well in the conventional dress of a man of fashion, the heavy blue shirt, open to display his fine throat, and tight fitting riding trousers emphasized the good lines of his powerfully muscled figure.

Edith shook her head.

"You are certain that there have been no soldiers about," he asked again, "no chaps in brown uniform?"

"Haven't seen any," denied Edith in nasal tones. "You're the first soldier I've seen since the county fair. Is it a parade?"

"It's a game of war," explained Paulton. "They divided the militia into two armies. The browns must beat the blues to win, and of course we blues are anxious to see that they don't. I am supposed to be scouting."

"Like real soldiers?" she asked innocently.

"Of course," was the impatient reply. "That is the whole idea, to train us like the regulars."

Edith giggled in a very good imitation of Dolly Spence, the village flirt.

"I didn't know that real soldiers stopped to talk to girls when there was a war on," she suggested as she raised her hand to the bonnet the better to adjust its shade.

The movement was fatal to concealment. Paulton noticed that her hand was unusually white for a girl who worked about the farm, and the next instant he recognized the slight filigree band that circled one of the slender fingers. It had been his mother's, and how often he had suggested to Edith to wear it!

"We are like regular soldiers also because we are not above a pleasant little flirtation," declared Paulton smilingly. "I believe that a regular soldier would kiss such a pretty face as yours!"

"How do you know that it is pretty?" demanded Edith from the security of the sunbonnet's shade. It hurt her to think that Guy would flirt with any girl he met, but she was determined to carry the game as far as she dared.

"I'll take the face on trust," announced Paulton calmly. "All's fair in love and war, they say, so your face must be fair, since this is mimic war."

"Maybe it's only make believe fair, since this is make believe war," suggested Edith coquettishly.

"To the contrary, this is very real war," declared Paulton, "and I am obliged to place you under arrest."

"What for?" demanded Edith, not without some alarm. "You cannot draw country folks into your games."

"You are wrong," retorted Paulton. "It is the soldier's duty to take into custody those enemies of his country whose sentiments threaten the success of a campaign."

"But I am not your enemy," protested Edith. "I won't be taken prisoner."

"Perhaps," assented Paulton, "but a stern duty confronts me. I must take you a prisoner and hale you before a court martial unless"—

He paused tantalizingly.

"Unless?" She told herself that if he demanded a kiss as the price of her freedom she would never believe in men again.

"There is but one way out of it," continued Paulton. "Prove your loyalty to your country by marrying one of its protectors. There is a parson just beyond here. I passed a church not very long ago. We will slip over there and get married, and then I shall be certain that you are not an enemy to the country."

"And if I refuse?" asked Edith loftily, in her anger dropping her vocal disguise.

"In that case," answered Paulton, "I am afraid that you will be thrown into the guardhouse until you change your mind."

"I shall report you to the colonel," cried Edith angrily. "He will not tolerate such conduct."

"I am quite certain that the colonel will approve my conduct," said Guy placidly. "Coming up on the train he told me that I ought to marry, and I assured him that, through no fault of mine, bachelorhood was my lot. I am sure that he will be pleased at the promptness with which I have acted upon his suggestion when I bring my bride into camp."

"I won't be your bride!" stormed Edith. "You are rude and ungentlemanly to take unfair advantage of a woman."

"All's fair in love and war," reminded Paulton, "and this is both love and war. I am doing the loving and you have been doing the warring. Do you think it was fair to run away as you did and never give me a hint of your address?"

"You know me?" gasped Edith.

"Most assuredly," declared Paulton. "I was not positive until I saw that you were wearing the little ring I gave you and which you never would wear in town. Then I knew that perhaps there was a chance. Will you marry me, Edith?"

"Not now," protested Edith in sudden panic. "Guy, don't make me marry you right away. You have your scouting to do, and—I never did like the minister of that little church," she added inconsequentially. "Dr. Miron is much nicer."

"May I come back when this cruel war is over—next week?" asked Guy tenderly. "Then I'll ask Dr. Miron to marry us, and we'll have our friends up to see the prisoner of war marry her captor, just as they do in historical novels."

"I think that I'll just have to marry you," assented Edith. "You are such a persistent torment."

"All's fair"— Paulton began his favorite quotation, but the rest was lost in the pasteboard tunnel of the sunbonnet as he claimed a kiss.

Her Preference.

"I want to make a gift to Miss Passay," said Dumley. "I wonder what sort of animal she'd prefer for a pet?"

"A man," promptly suggested Miss Knox.—Philadelphia Press.

Sensible Dog.

"Talking about the intelligence of animals," said young Kanebiter, "why, I have a dog up at the farm that's simply wonderful."

"How so?" said Pitken.

"Why, you see, I was out shooting one day when I found a large, handsome dog lying on the ground moaning with pain. Some ruffian had shot it in the leg. I carried it home, bandaged the wound and finally cured the poor beast. Some months after that I was compelled to travel a lonely road after dark when suddenly Ponto, who accompanied me, growled warningly. The next moment a highwayman stepped out of the bushes and put a pistol to my head."

"Ah," cried the listener, "I see! Thereupon the grateful dog seized the robber by the throat."

"Not at all. The man robbed me easily enough—took watch, purse, everything."

"But Ponto?"

"Ran off as fast as his legs would carry him. That's the point—don't you see? Animal instinct—didn't want to get shot again." — Illustrated London News.

Evans--Bowes

Miss Carolyn B. Bowes, of Howard and Clarence G. Evans, of Harrisburg, were married in the Christian chapel at Howard Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bowes, and was one of Howard's accomplished young ladies. The ceremony was witnessed by about 125 guests, many of them from a distance. After the wedding dinner the newly married couple left on the evening train for Harrisburg.

The Pittsburg Gazette Times of Thursday says: Prof. James R. Hughes, headmaster of the famous Bellefonte academy at Bellefonte, Pa., is spending this week in this city, looking up the interest of his school. This century institution employes 12 instructors for 120 students, 60 of whom are boarders. Individual attention is the feature. Mr. Hughes will gladly call upon parents desiring an interview.

Preacher and Teacher Wed.

Rev. Owen Hicks, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at State Run, Lycoming county, and Miss Clara Kline, of Howard, and who has been principal of the Garfield school in Altoona, were united in marriage at Williamsport on Thursday of last week. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. S. Wilcox, presiding elder of the district, in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends of the families. The bride is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Samuel Kline, of Howard, and for many years taught in the public schools of that place. Rev. Hicks was at one time pastor of the Howard charge. Both are well known people and are receiving the congratulations of their friends.

A Freakish Tree.

Harry Kinley, who owns the Hartman Henry farm in Cartanea, discovered a peculiar looking tree after he had cut it down on Friday. It was an oak and he expected to get considerable fire wood from it, since its heighth was about 50 feet; but when it was felled he observed that the centre was hollow and only wood and bark three inches thick was the substance of this big tree. Another strange thing about it was that at a distance of 40 feet in the air four distinct elder bushes protruded from it and all contained berries. It is presumed that years ago birds deposited seeds in the tree and from this the elder bushes took root and seemed to thrive as well as if planted in the ground.—Lock Haven Express.

—If you are thinking of going to a Normal School this coming year, it will be to your advantage to patronize a well established and thoroughly reputable school. The Lock Haven State Normal School meets these requirements. The Fall term begins Sept. 7th. A catalogue will be sent upon application to the Principal.

"It is the little rift within the lute which ever widening, makes the music mute." It is just a little rift in the health of a woman often, which gradually takes the spring from her step, the light from her eyes, the rose from her cheek the music from her voice. Perhaps the bug-bear which has frightened the woman from the timely help needed at needed at the beginning has been the dreaded questions, the obnoxious examination the local treatments, of the home physician. There is no need for these. Nor is there need for continued suffering. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can be relied on by every women suffering from what are called "female troubles," to renew the health and cure the disease. Women are astonished at the results of the use of this medicine. It not only makes weak women "robust and rosy cheeked," but it gives them back the vigor and vitality of youth. This is not a "patent medicine" but a prescription of known composition in which pure, triple-refined glycerine is used instead of alcohol. Each bottle wrapper bears a full list of ingredients upon it.

Mrs. E. F. Wagner

Mrs Annie C. Wagner, wife of Dr. E. F. Wagner, of Fort Wayne, Ind., died in the Maple Hill sanitarium at Philipsburg, Thursday morning at 6 45 of leukaemia, after an illness of about nine months.

The deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Pottsgrove and was born at Pine Grove Mills on October 31, 1858, making her age 49 years, 9 months and 20 days. She went to Philipsburg with her parents 28 years ago. She was married to Dr. E. F. Wagner on May 7, 1889 and for 14 years they have resided in Fort Wayne. She was a member of the Methodist church and a lady of many pleasing qualities. Besides her husband and aged parents she is survived by one sister, Mrs. Samuel Riesel of Johnstown. Funeral services were held at the home of the deceased's parents Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock and Saturday morning the remains were taken to York, Pa., where interment was made Monday afternoon.

Death at State College.

Miss Jane B. Pearce, all her life a resident of Potter township, died on the 22nd instant, at the residence of her niece Mrs. John T. McCormick at State College. Had she survived until Oct. 2nd, she would have been ninety years old. She was a daughter of Rev. Marmaduke Pearce, a pioneer minister of the Methodist church in Central Pennsylvania, and for seventy years she was a consistent member of that denomination. A grand daughter of Fergus Potter, who settled near Linden Hall in 1772, she and her family have been identified with the early history of the county.

Her nearest kin are Mrs. Margaret Hutchison of Bellefonte, Mrs. Catharine McCormick, wife of John T. McCormick, State College, and C. P. Hewes of Erie, Pa., and Rev. John J. Pearce, a half-brother who resides at Conneat, Ohio. Interment took place Tuesday at Sprucetown cemetery.

Fire at Runville

The large new dwelling house of Orren Poorman, of Runville, was destroyed by fire shortly before noon on Wednesday. The fire originated from a spark from a chimney and soon gained such headway that it was impossible to extinguish the flames and the house was burned to the ground. Only a few articles were saved as the efforts of the persons who came to Mr. Poorman's assistance were required to fight the fire and save the other buildings. The barn was afire several times but hard work saved it from destruction.

The dwelling, which was erected only last summer, was a large handsome structure and the loss will be sorely felt by Mr. Poorman. He carried an insurance of $12,000 or $13,000.

New Mary Ann Problem

Some one who is far enough away to be safe has started a Mary Ann problem thus:

In the United States the Mexican dollar has an exchange value of 90 cents. In Mexico the American dollar has the same value. On the frontier of the United States where Texas joins Mexico there are two saloons, one on each side of the frontier. A man buys a ten-cent drink of whiskey at the American saloon and pays for it with an American dollar receiving a Mexican dollar as change. With this he crosses the boarder, goes into the Mexican saloon, hands over the Mexican dollar for a ten-cent drink and receives an American dollar as change. It is evident that the limit of his purchase power is the length of time he can stand. He finally wakes up with a bad headache and the American dollar with which he started. Who paid for the whiskey?

WARRATS FOR FIVE PERSONS

Who are Implicated in the Camden Trunk Mystery

SON HEADS THE LIST

He was Missing a few Days After His Father Disappeared From Winber. Others not Named

INFORMATION RECEIVED IN A LETTER.

Fittsbury, August 23.—A staff correspondent of the Gazette-Times, under date of Winber, August 22, says:

Warrants were issued today for five persons in connection with the murder of Samuel J. Rosenbloom, the merchant of this place, who disappeared last November and whose remains were found in a trunk by picnickers at Camdem, N. J., early in this week.

The first action taken in the case following the identification yesterday of the trunk and clothing of its occupant by Harry Friedman, a clerk for Rosenbloom was early this afternoon, when Justice of the Peace M. E Sell, of Windber, issued a warrant for the arrest of Alexander Rosenbloom, son of the murdered merchant. The son himself has been missing since a few days after the disappearance of his father.

Later in the day District Attorney John S. Miller, of Somerset county after a conference at Somerset with Friedman and Sol Brickner, a nephew of the elder Rosenbloom, announced that five warrants would be issued, but declined to name the persons against whom the charges would be made.

He said, however, that officers would be sent to Baltimore Monday in connection with the case. Mrs. Rosenbloom, the widow of the murdered man, and their 15 year-old daughter, Esta, are supposed to be in Baltimore, where they went last July, after the store had been sold out. A married daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Cohen, lives in Baltimore, and another married daughter, Mrs. Louise Weller, lives in New Brunswick, N. J.

The names of two young men named Ezler were brought into the case through a letter written by Mrs. Weller to her mother shortly after the disappearance of her father. In this letter she urged the arrest of her brother, Alexander, and asked instructions as to what should be done with Ezlers.

The warrant issued by Justice Sell was on information made by Constable John H. Hummel, charging young Rosenbloom with the murder of his father on or about November 11, 1907. The information also charges that Alexander was assisted in the crime by others at present unknown.

THE ORIGINAL LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP
KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE
CONTAINING HONEY AND TAR

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

MEXICAN POLITENESS.

In the State of Michoacan Chivalry Is Compulsory.

"If any man opines that the days of chivalry and the true knight errant spirit have gone forever, let him start forthwith on a far southward journey, not halt his steps until he brings up in the town of Morelia, which is the capital of the Mexican state of Michoacan," remarked a traveling man.

"Having arrived in Morelia, he will at once see that the chivalrous spirit still survives. I was down there not long ago, and the gallantry of the men and their extreme readiness to extend courtesies to the fair sex pleased and surprised me. When I noticed the alacrity with which the native males jumped up on the crowded street car to offer their seats to the first senorita that entered, I thought to myself how much more gentlemanly are these Mexicans than many of my own countrymen. They do not wait to see if some other man is going to get up, but each tries to beat the other in courteously proffering his seat to the lady.

"I spoke about the matter to the proprietor of the hotel and immediately he began to laugh.

"'You must understand, senor,' said the innkeeper, 'that the governor of our state issued a decree that if any man keep his seat in a street car, thereby compelling a woman to stand, he is liable to arrest and a fine. The police have been instructed to execute this order severely, and I think this has much to do with the prompt politeness of which you speak, since none of our population wishes to become involved with the police and to be publicly branded as lacking in gentility.'"—Baltimore American.

His Only Want.

Billionaire's Daughter—You wrong him, papa. He does not love me for my money. He scoffs at the world's sordid eagerness for wealth. Papa—What proof have you, child? Billionaire's Daughter—Why, only last night he told me he didn't care if he was never able to make a penny in his life if he only had me.

Won Her a Diadem.

How did the French come into Sicily? A woman did it. At a festive entertainment held at a French court Beatrice, countess of Savoy and wife of Charles of Anjou, the brother of Louis IX. of France, was removed from the superior range of seats occupied by her two younger sisters, the queen of France and the queen of England. Mortified by the humiliation, she returned to her apartments and burst into tears. Upon learning the cause of her chagrin and her saying that she would be able to give up her life to confine her tresses for one hour beneath a diadem Charles embraced her affectionately and said, "Set your heart at rest, countess, for before long I will make you a greater queen than either of your sisters." So he promised her. He defeated Manfred, the last of the Norman kings, and caused Conradino, the great-grandson of the Emperor Frederick, to be mercilessly slain, he himself and Beatrice witnessing the scene. Upon the death of his brother Charles became king of Naples, thus fulfilling the cherished desire of his wife for a diadem.

The Wrist and the Arm.

The real wrist, as one might say, is the elbow joint. It is all hand, practically speaking, from that point to the tips of the fingers. When you turn your wrist it is the whole forearm that makes the twist, and every movement of the fingers is controlled by the muscles of the forearm. The power to turn the wrist to and fro at the elbow joint is possessed only by human beings and monkeys, and even the higher apes are not able to do the trick nearly as well as we can. In this movement the great biceps muscle in the upper arm is importantly concerned, its powerful action in turning the forearm outward being accountable for the fact that we are able to put so much more strength into a twist in that direction than the opposite way. Many of our most familiar tools indeed, such as the screwdriver, are made with reference to the anatomical peculiarity in question. It is for this reason and no other that all screws turn to the right.

Reed and Strout.

Thomas B. Reed served in the navy during the civil war, and in 1865 he returned to Portland to practice law. One of the strongest men at the Portland bar at the time was A. A. Strout. Before beginning the trial of a suit it was Strout's habit to inquire of every juror as to the state of his health and impress each with the idea that the lawyer was solicitous of that juror's personal welfare. Reed and Strout were constantly antagonizing each other, though they were very good friends. In nearly every case of importance Strout and Reed were on opposite sides. It was annoying indeed for the suave Strout to hear Reed drawl out before the opening of a case:

"Well, your honor, Brother Strout having finished his morning task of shaking hands with the jury, we may now, I hope, proceed with the business of the court."

A Woman's Health

Is a heritage too sacred to be experimented with. For her peculiar and delicate ailments only medicines of known composition and which contain no alcohol, narcotics, or other harmful or habit-forming drugs should be employed. The one medicine which fulfills all these requirements is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—a remedy with a record of over forty years of cures to recommend it; a remedy, the makers of which print its formula on every bottle-wrapper and attest its completeness and correctness under oath; a remedy devised and adapted to woman's delicate constitution by an educated physician—an experienced specialist in woman's diseases; a remedy, every ingredient of which has received the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar diseases; a remedy which has more bona-fide cures to its credit than any other sold by druggists for woman's special requirements. It is not given away in the form of "trial bottles" to be experimented with, but is sold at a fair price by all dealers in medicines.

Delicate, weak, nervous women should especially shun the use of alcoholic medicines which, from their stimulating and exhilerating effects may seem, for a time, to do good, but which from the inevitable effects of the alcohol in shrinking up the red corpuscles of the blood are sure to do great and lasting harm in the long run. Besides they beget a craving for stimulants which is most deplorable.

Only invigorating and nerve strengthening effects can follow the use of this famous medicine for women. It can not possibly do harm in any state or condition of the system. It has been carefully adapted to woman's needs by an experienced physician—a specialist in their diseases. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

If a woman has bearing down, or dragging pains, low down in the abdomen, or pelvis, backache, frequent headaches, dizzy or fainting spells, is nervous and easily startled, has gnawing feeling in stomach, sees imaginary floating specks, or spots before her eyes, has melancholia, or "blues," or a weakening disagreeable drain from pelvic organs, she can make no mistake by resorting to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will invigorate and tone up the whole system and especially the pelvic organs.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skilful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic, "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For over-worked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

No woman suffering from any of the above symptoms can afford to accept any secret nostrum or medicine of unknown composition, as a substitute for a medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is OF KNOWN COMPOSITION and has a record of over forty years of cures and sells more largely to-day than ever before. Its makers withhold no secrets from their patients, believing open publicity to be the very best guaranty of merit.

Dr. Pierce invites all suffering women to consult him by letter free of charge. All letters of consultation are held as strictly private and sacredly confidential and all answers are returned in plain, sealed envelopes. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Preserving the Balance.

A well known professor of architecture, commonly referred to as "Hammy" by his pupils, told a story illustrative of the remarkable degree to which certain persons possess the sense of symmetry.

It seems that there was once a Scotch gardener who had charge of a good sized English estate and under whose direction the formal garden at the rear had been laid out with absolute symmetry, even the two summer houses, one on each side of the garden, being identical in even the most minute detail. On one occasion the Englishman became angry at his son and locked him up in one of the summer houses. As soon as the Scotch gardener heard of this his sense of symmetry was so outraged that he immediately sent for his own son and locked him up in the other summer house to preserve the balance. "Hammy" neglected to mention whether both boys were dressed exactly alike, but it is to be presumed that even this detail was attended to by the aesthetic Scotchman.—New York Times.

Postage Stamp Gum.

Every time a person licks a United States postage stamp he gets a taste of sweet potato. The gum with which the stamps are backed is made from that succulent vegetable because Uncle Sam's lieutenants consider it the most harmless preparation of the sort. All of the gum used on American postage stamps is mixed by the government at the bureau of engraving and printing, where the stamps are made. It is spread on the sheets after the stamps have been printed. The gum, in a liquid form, is forced up through pipes from the basement, where it is made. These pipes lead to a series of machines consisting of rollers, between which the sheets of stamps are fed, one at a time. A continuous fine stream of the liquid gum falls upon one of these rollers. The sheet with its wet coating of sweet potato mucilage passes from the rollers into a long horizontal flue filled with hot air. When it emerges at the other end of the flue the gum is dry.—New York Telegram.

Straight From the Animal.

A London gentleman, having taken a small farm in the country as being the correct thing to do, as well as to get a little fresh air, had invited some of his friends down to see his new possession.

Having viewed the domain and noting the absence of creature life about the place, one of his friends remarked:

"With a nice, open place like this, I wonder you don't have some animals about, as is usual on a farm. Some cows, for instance, so as to have your own butter and cream."

"No-o," drawled his host, "don't care about butter or cream."

"Some chickens or ducks, then. You surely like fresh eggs?"

"No-o, don't care for eggs. But I've sometimes thought I'd like a sheep. I rather like kidneys for breakfast."—Liverpool Mercury.

She Had Red Burns.

The philanthropic lady was visiting a Glasgow slum and had just been ushered into a house where the good wife was engaged washing. Her endeavor was to elevate the minds of the poor, and she asked, "Have you read Burns?"

In answer the good wife bared her brawny arm and displayed a large red mark, saying: "There's wan I got this morn wi' the steam o' the pot bilin' ower. But, efter a', a burn's, aye red!"

Must Have Had Experience.

"Never mind, dear," he said reassuringly as she raised her sweet face from his shoulder and they both saw the white blur on his coat; "it will all brush off."

"Oh, Charlie," she burst out, sobbing, hiding her face again upon his whitey shoulder, "how do you know?"—Somerville Journal.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold.

A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Indiana writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." Sold by C. M. Parrish.

Colds That Hang On

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket boxes 5 cents. Sold by Greens Pharmacy

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.

Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough 'cures'? Bah! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 10 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

NUMBER ONE.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing amendments to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania so as to consolidate the courts of common pleas of Philadelphia and Allegheny counties, and to give the General Assembly power to establish a separate court in Philadelphia county, with criminal and miscellaneous jurisdiction.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly met, That the following amendments to the Constitution of Pennsylvania be, and the same are hereby, proposed in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:—

That section six of article five be amended by striking out the said section and inserting in place thereof the following:

Section 6. In the counties of Philadelphia and Allegheny all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the several numbered courts of common pleas, shall be vested in one court of common pleas in each of said counties, composed of all the judges in commission in said courts. Such jurisdiction and powers shall extend to all proceedings at law and in equity which shall have been instituted in the several numbered courts, and shall be subject to such changes as may be made by law, and subject to change of venue as provided by law. The president judge of each of the said courts shall be selected as provided by law. The number of judges in each of said courts may be, by law, increased from time to time. This amendment shall take effect on the first Monday of January succeeding its adoption.

Section 2. That article five, section eight, be amended by making an addition thereto so that the same shall read as follows:

Section 8. The said courts in the counties of Philadelphia and Allegheny respectively shall, from time to time, in turn, detail one or more of their judges to hold the courts of oyer and terminer and the courts of quarter sessions of the peace of said counties, in such manner as may be directed by law: Provided, That in the county of Philadelphia the General Assembly shall have power to establish a separate court, consisting of not more than four judges, which shall have exclusive jurisdiction in criminal cases and in such other matters as may be provided by law.

NUMBER TWO.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth, allowing counties, cities, boroughs, townships, school districts, or other municipal or incorporated districts, to increase their indebtedness.

Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That section eight, article nine, of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, reading as follows:—

"Section 8. The debt of any county, city, borough, township, school district, or other municipality or incorporated district, except as herein provided, shall never exceed seven per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein; nor shall any such municipality or district incur any new debt or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two per centum upon such assessed valuation of property, without the assent of the electors thereof at a public election, in such manner as shall be provided by law; but any city, the debt of which now exceeds seven per centum of such assessed valuation, may be authorized by law to increase the same three per centum, in the aggregate, at any one time, upon such valuation," be amended, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article of said Constitution, so that said section, when amended, shall read as follows:—

Section 8. The debt of any county, city, borough, township, school district, or other municipality or incorporated district, except as herein provided, shall never exceed ten per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein; nor shall any such municipality or district incur any new debt or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two per centum upon such assessed valuation of property without the assent of the electors thereof at a public election, in such manner as shall be provided by law.

NUMBER THREE.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing amendments to sections eight and twenty-one of article four, sections eleven and twelve of article five, sections two, three, and fourteen of article eight, section one of article twelve, and sections two and seven of article fourteen, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, and providing a schedule for carrying the amendments into effect.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following are proposed as amendments to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof:—

Amendment One—To Article Four, Section Eight.

Section 2. Amend section eight of article four of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, which reads as follows:—

"He shall nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of all the members of the Senate, appoint a Secretary of the Commonwealth and an Attorney General during pleasure, a Superintendent of Public Instruction for four years, and such other officers of the Commonwealth as he is or may be authorized by the Constitution or by law to appoint; he shall have power to fill all vacancies that may happen, in offices to which he may appoint, during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session; he shall have power to fill any vacancy that may happen, during the recess of the Senate, in the office of Auditor General, State Treasurer, Secretary of Internal Affairs or Superintendent of Public Instruction, in a judicial office, or in any other elective office which he is or may be authorized to fill; if the vacancy shall happen during the session of the Senate, the Governor shall nominate to the Senate, before their final adjournment, a proper person to fill said vacancy; but in any such case of vacancy, in an elective office, a person shall be chosen to said office at the next general election, unless the vacancy shall happen within three calendar months immediately preceding such election, in which case the election for said office shall be held at the second succeeding general election. In acting on executive nominations the Senate shall sit with open doors, and, in confirming or rejecting the nominations of the Governor, the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays, and shall be entered on the journal," so as to read as follows:—

He shall nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of all the members of the Senate, appoint a Secretary of the Commonwealth and an Attorney General during pleasure, a Superintendent of Public Instruction for four years, and such other officers of the Commonwealth as he is or may be authorized by the Constitution or by law to appoint; he shall have power to fill all vacancies that may happen, in offices to which he may appoint, during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session; he shall have power to fill any vacancy that may happen, during the recess of the Senate, in the office of Auditor General, State Treasurer, Secretary of Internal Affairs or Superintendent of Public Instruction, in a judicial office, or in any other elective office which he is or may be authorized to fill; if the vacancy shall happen during the session of the Senate, the Governor shall nominate to the Senate, before their final adjournment, a proper person to fill said vacancy; but in any such case of vacancy, in an elective office, a person shall be chosen to said office on the next election day appropriate to such office, according to the provisions of this Constitution, unless the vacancy shall happen within two calendar months immediately preceding such election day, in which case the election for said office shall be held on the second succeeding election day appropriate to such office. In acting on executive nominations the Senate shall sit with open doors, and, in confirming or rejecting the nominations of the Governor, the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays, and shall be entered on the journal.

Amendment Two—To Article Four, Section Twenty-one.

Section 3. Amend section twenty-one of article four, which reads as follows:—

"The term of the Secretary of Internal Affairs shall be four years; of the Auditor General three years; and of the State Treasurer two years. These officers shall be chosen by the qualified electors of the State at general elections. No person elected to the office of Auditor General or State Treasurer shall be capable of holding the same office for two consecutive terms," so as to read:—

The terms of the Secretary of Internal Affairs, the Auditor General, and the State Treasurer shall each be four years; and they shall be chosen by the qualified electors of the State at general elections; but a State Treasurer, elected in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine, shall serve for three years, and his successors shall be elected at the general election in the year one thousand nine hundred and twelve, and in every fourth year thereafter. No person elected to the office of Auditor General or State Treasurer shall be capable of holding the same office for two consecutive terms.

Amendment Three—To Article Five, Section Eleven.

Section 4. Amend section eleven of article five, which reads as follows:—

"Except as otherwise provided in this Constitution, justices of the peace or aldermen shall be elected in the several wards, districts, boroughs and townships at the time of the election of constables, by the qualified electors thereof, in such manner as shall be directed by law, and shall be commissioned by the Governor for a term of five years. No township, ward, district or borough shall elect more than two justices of the peace or aldermen without the consent of a majority of the qualified electors within such township, ward or borough; no person shall be elected to such office unless he shall have resided within the township, borough, ward or district for one year next preceding his election. In cities containing over fifty thousand inhabitants, not more than one alderman shall be elected in each ward or district," so as to read:—

Except as otherwise provided in this Constitution, justices of the peace or aldermen shall be elected in the several wards, districts, boroughs or townships by the qualified electors thereof, at the municipal election, in such manner as shall be directed by law, and shall be commissioned by the Governor for a term of six years. No township, ward, district or borough shall elect more than two justices of the peace or aldermen without the consent of a majority of the qualified electors within such township, ward or borough; no person shall be elected to such office unless he shall have resided within the township, borough, ward or district for one year next preceding his election. In cities containing over fifty thousand inhabitants, not more than one alderman shall be elected in each ward or district.

Amendment Four—To Article Five, Section Twelve.

Section 5. Amend section twelve of article five of the Constitution, which reads as follows:—

"In Philadelphia there shall be established, for each thirty thousand inhabitants, one court, not of record, of police and civil causes, with jurisdiction not exceeding one hundred dollars; such courts shall be held by magistrates whose term of office shall be five years, and they shall be elected on general ticket by the qualified voters at large; and in the election of the said magistrates no voter shall vote for more than two-thirds of the number of persons to be elected when more than one are to be chosen; they shall be compensated only by fixed salaries, to be paid by said county; and shall exercise such jurisdiction, civil and criminal, except as herein provided, as is now exercised by aldermen, subject to such changes, not involving an increase of civil jurisdiction or conferring political duties, as may be made by law. In Philadelphia the office of alderman is abolished," so as to read as follows:—

In Philadelphia there shall be established, for each thirty thousand inhabitants, one court, not of record, of police and civil causes, with jurisdiction not exceeding one hundred dollars; such courts shall be held by magistrates whose term of office shall be six years, and they shall be elected on general ticket at the municipal election, by the qualified voters at large; and in the election of the said magistrates no voter shall vote for more than two-thirds of the number of persons to be elected when more than one are to be chosen; they shall be compensated only by fixed salaries, to be paid by said county; and shall exercise such jurisdiction, civil and criminal, except as herein provided, as is now exercised by aldermen, subject to such changes, not involving an increase of civil jurisdiction or conferring political duties, as may be made by law. In Philadelphia the office of alderman is abolished.

Amendment Five—To Article Eight, Section Two.

Section 6. Amend section two of article eight, which reads as follows:—

"The general election shall be held annually on the Tuesday next following the first Monday of November, but the General Assembly may by law fix a different day, two-thirds of all the members of each House consenting thereto," so as to read:—

The general election shall be held biennially on the Tuesday next following the first Monday of November in each even-numbered year, but the General Assembly may by law fix a different day, two-thirds of all the members of each House consenting thereto: Provided, That such election shall always be held in an even-numbered year.

Amendment Six—To Article Eight, Section Three.

Section 7. Amend section three of article eight, which reads as follows:—

"All elections for city, ward, borough and township officers, for regular terms of service, shall be held on the third Tuesday of February," so as to read:—

All judges elected by the electors of the State at large may be elected at either a general or municipal election, as circumstances may require. All elections for judges of the courts for the several judicial districts, and for county, city, ward, borough, and township officers, for regular terms of service, shall be held on the municipal election day; namely, the Tuesday next following the first Monday of November in each odd-numbered year, but the General Assembly may by law fix a different day, two-thirds of all the members of each House consenting thereto: Provided, That such election shall always be held in an odd-numbered year.

Amendment Seven—To Article Eight, Section Fourteen.

Section 8. Amend section fourteen of article eight, which reads as follows:—

"District election boards shall consist of a judge and two inspectors, who shall be chosen annually by the citizens. Each elector shall have the right to vote for the judge and one inspector, and each inspector shall appoint one clerk. The first election board for any new district shall be selected, and vacancies in election boards filled, as shall be provided by law. Election officers shall be privileged from arrest upon days of election, and while engaged in making up and transmitting returns, except upon warrant of a court of record or judge thereof, for an election fraud, for felony, or for wanton breach of the peace. In cities they may claim exemption from jury duty during their terms of service," so as to read:—

District election boards shall consist of a judge and two inspectors, who shall be chosen biennially, by the citizens at the municipal election; but the General Assembly may require said boards to be appointed in such manner as it may by law provide. Laws regulating the appointment of said boards may be enacted to apply to cities only: Provided, That such laws be uniform for cities of the same class. Each elector shall have the right to vote for the judge and one inspector, and each inspector shall appoint one clerk. The first election board for any new district shall be selected, and vacancies in election boards filled, as shall be provided by law. Election officers shall be privileged from arrest upon days of election, and while engaged in making up and transmitting returns, except upon warrant of a court of record, or judge thereof, for an election fraud, for felony or for wanton breach of the peace. In cities they may claim exemption from jury duty during their terms of service.

Amendment Eight—To Article Twelve, Section One.

Section 9. Amend section one, article twelve, which reads as follows:—

"All officers, whose selection is not provided for in this Constitution, shall be elected or appointed as may be directed by law," so as to read:—

All officers, whose selection is not provided for in this Constitution, shall be elected or appointed as may be directed by law: Provided, That elections of State officers shall be held on a general election day, and elections of local officers shall be held on a municipal election day, except when, in either case, special elections may be required to fill unexpired terms.

Amendment Nine—To Article Fourteen, Section Two.

Section 10. Amend section two of article fourteen, which reads as follows:—

"County officers shall be elected at the general elections and shall hold their offices for the term of three years, beginning on the first Monday of January next after their election, and until their successors shall be duly qualified; all vacancies not otherwise provided for, shall be filled in such manner as may be provided by law," so as to read:—

County officers shall be elected at the municipal elections and shall hold their offices for the term of four years, beginning on the first Monday of January next after their election, and until their successors shall be duly qualified; all vacancies not otherwise provided for, shall be filled in such manner as may be provided by law.

Amendment Ten—To Article Fourteen, Section Seven.

Section 11. Amend section seven, article fourteen, which reads as follows:—

"Three county commissioners and three county auditors shall be elected in each county where such officers are chosen, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five and every third year thereafter; and in the election of said officers each qualified elector shall vote for no more than two persons, and the three persons having the highest number of votes shall be elected; any casual vacancy in the office of county commissioner or county auditor shall be filled by the court of common pleas of the county in which such vacancy shall occur, by the appointment of an elector of the proper county who shall have voted for the commissioner or auditor whose place is to be filled," so as to read:—

Three county commissioners and three county auditors shall be elected in each county where such officers are chosen, in the year one thousand nine hundred and eleven and every fourth year thereafter; and in the election of said officers each qualified elector shall vote for no more than two persons, and the three persons having the highest number of votes shall be elected; any casual vacancy in the office of county commissioner or county auditor shall be filled, by the court of common pleas of the county in which such vacancy shall occur, by the appointment of an elector of the proper county who shall have voted for the commissioner or auditor whose place is to be filled.

Schedule for the Amendments.

Section 12. That no inconvenience may arise from the changes in the Constitution of the Commonwealth, and in order to carry the same into complete operation, it is hereby declared, that—

In the case of officers elected by the people, all terms of office fixed by act of Assembly at an odd number of years shall each be lengthened one year, but the Legislature may change the length of the term, provided the terms for which such officers are elected shall always be for an even number of years.

The above extension of official terms shall not affect officers elected at the general election of one thousand nine hundred and eight; nor any city, ward, borough, township, or election division officers, whose terms of office, under existing law, end in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten.

In the year one thousand nine hundred and ten the municipal election shall be held on the third Tuesday of February, as heretofore; but all officers chosen at that election to an office the regular term of which is two years, and also all election officers and assessors chosen at that election, shall serve until the first Monday of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and eleven. All officers chosen at that election to offices the term of which is now four years, or is made four years by the operation of these amendments or this schedule, shall serve until the first Monday of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and thirteen. All justices of the peace, magistrates, and aldermen, chosen at that election, shall serve until the first Monday of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and fifteen. After the year nineteen hundred and ten, and until the Legislature shall otherwise provide, all terms of city, ward, borough, township, and election division officers shall begin on the first Monday of December in an odd-numbered year.

All city, ward, borough, and township officers holding office at the date of the approval of these amendments, whose terms of office may end in the year one thousand nine hundred and eleven, shall continue to hold their offices until the first Monday of January, one thousand nine hundred and twelve.

Only a Mask.

Many are being benefited by the summer vacation as they should be. Now notwithstanding much outdoor life, they are little if any stronger than they were The tan on their faces is darker and makes them look healthier, but it is only a mask. They are still nervous, easily tired, upset by trifles, and they do not eat nor sleep well. What they need is what tones the nerves, perfects digestion, creates appetite, and makes sleep refreshing, and that is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Pupils and teachers generally will find the chief purpose of the vacation best subserved by this great medicine which, as we know, "builds up the whole system."

Pain anywhere stopped in 20 minutes sure with one of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. The formula is on the 25-cent box. Ask your Doctor or Druggist about this formula! Stops womanly pains, headache, pains anywhere. Write Dr. Shoop, Racine Wis. for free trial to prove value of his headache, or Pink Pain Tablets. Sold by J. Zeller & Son.

When the Stomach Heart, or Kidney nerves get weak, then these organs always fail Don't drug the stomach nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is simply a make shift. Get a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is prepared expressly for these weak inside nerves. Strengthen these nerves, build them up with Dr. Shoop's Restorative—tablets or liquid—and see how quickly help will come. Sold by J. Zeller & Jon.

Hundreds of people who suffer from backache rheumatism, lame back, lumbago and similar ailments are not aware that these are merely symptoms of kidney trouble, and to be relieved they must correct the cause. Pineules for the Kidneys, pleasant and easy to take, are readily absorbed by the stomach and blood act directly on the kidneys, bringing quick relief to backache and other symptoms of kidney and bladder derangements. A dose of Pineules at bed time brings relief. 30 days' trial $1.00 and guaranteed or money. Sold by C M Parrish

Kept Murder a Secret.

H. B. Faust, an instalment house salesman, disappeared on March 31, 1907, after registering at a hotel in Coalport, Clearfield county, and no trace of him was ever found. At the instance of Mrs. Mary Kephart, of Coalport, Joe Heverly was arrested charged with murder.

Mrs. Kephart, in a sworn affidavit, stated that she saw Heverly in conversation with Faust back of a barn and saw Heverly shoot the salesman twice with a shotgun. She hesitated to make information through a dread of Heverly, she declares, but finally decided to tell her story.

Heverly was aerested at Flinton and brought to jail. He says he is innocent and places the blame for the crime on a relative. Officers are seeking this relative. Heverly's trial will be held in eptember.

Mrs. Thomas Frank.

Mrs. Thomas Frank, an aged lady of Haines township, died at her home in Arronsburg on Wednesday of last week. About a week previous to her death Mrs. Frank suffered a paralytic stroke, and from that time gradually sank until the time of her death.

Mrs. Frank was born in Union county and was aged 72 years, 9 months and 13 days. The fiftieth anniversary of her marriage passed a short time ago and ever since she became the wife of Mr. Frank they have resided in the vicinity of Aaronsburg. She was a member of the Lutheran church and a woman who won many friends by her kind disposition and her regard for others. She is survived by her husband and two children, Mrs. Catherine Breon, of Aaronsburg, and Edward Frank, of South Dakota.

The funeral was held Saturday forenoon at 10 o'clock, services being conducted in the Lutheran church at Aaronsburg by Rev. Sheeder. Interment was made at that place.

ONLY ONE.

The Record in Bellefonte is a Unique One.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ill and is looking for relief and cure, better depend on the only remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve quickly—cure permanently. Bellefonte citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

Mrs. Emma J. Davis of E. Logan St. Bellefonte, Pa. says; I have a great deal of confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills, and have already recommended them in a published testimonial in 1897. I told how I had been relieved of kidney complaint and backache which had kept me suffering for years. Doan's Kidney Pills did this for me when other remedies had failed. Whenever I feel any symptom of my old trouble I send to F. Potts Green's drug store for a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and it never requires more than a few doses to get me right."

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—The Bigler campmeeting at Bigler, Clearfield county, opened Saturday. The meeting will continue until August 31.

—Joseph Bros. and Co. have greatly improved their place of business last week by having it treated with a bright coat of paint.

—The past few evenings and mornings have had somewhat of a fall like chilliness, but we may hope for some warm weather yet before the frosts come.

—Home grown grapes are now getting ripe and some of the early varieties are already on the market. There will be a large crop of this fruit this season.

—The Hotel Merrill, at Dents Run, was destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning, entailing a loss of about $15,000. Some of the guests had a narrow escape.

—Charles Heisler and John Knisely are now camping near Howard and fishing for bass in the dam at that place. Al. Roberts is doing the cooking for them.

—The Berwind-White Coal Mining company has been compelled to close a number of its mines in Cambria county on account of the drouth that prevails in that section.

—The State College Times states that Montgomery & Co., will open a branch store in that place next month. The new store will be under the management of Claude Smith.

—The second annual reunion of the Hunter-Bailey-Thomas families was held at Agar's park on Wednesday. Members of these families from Bellefonte and vicinity were in attendance.

—The Cambria County fair will be held this year on Tuesday, Wednesday Thursday and Friday, September 1, 2, 3, and 4, at Carrolltown. Excellent races and fine displays have been provided for.

—Miss Mae G. Lyle, of Houserville, and Charles R. Shreffler, of Axe Mann, were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Houtz, at Houserville on Friday evening, August 14, by Elder A. D. Wirts.

—The Coleville band gave a concert in front of the Garman house on Wednesday evening and a large number of people assembled to listen to the sweet strains of the music discoursed during the concert.

—Announcement has been made of the coming marriage of Miss Margaret Burnett, of Bellefonte to B. S. Burlingame, of Syracuse, N. Y., also that of Miss Jennie Breese who will be married to Joseph Baker of Philadelphia.

—Richard Sheehe of Clearfield Thursday morning assumed charge of the Garman house. Mr. Sheehe comes to Bellefonte with a good reputation as a hotel man and it is his expectation to conduct this place as is becoming of the man and the place.

—While returning from the national food experts' conclave at Macinac, Mich, State Food Commissioner James Foust, of Altoona, was robbed of $80 while sleeping in a Pullman car between Pittsburg and Buffalo. The Pennsylvania railroad detectives are trying to deduct the mystery of the theft.

—Joseph D. Diehl, of Howard, has purchased the entire crop of peaches from Col. W. Fred Reynolds and this week commenced the shipment of the fruit. Mr. Diehl received an order during the past week for twenty car loads but being unable to contract for a sufficient number of peaches to fill the order, had to turn it down.

—The Aaronsburg band has been engaged by the Bellefonte Castle Knights of the Golden Eagle to accompany them to Jersey Shore at the meeting of the Susquehanna District association K. G. E. on Labor day, September 7. The band boys have just donned new uniforms of blue coats and white trousers and they make quite a showy appearance.

—The business offices of the Pennsylvania State College have been opened and preparations are being made for the opening of the fall term of school, which begings on Thursday, September 17th. During the vaction period many improvements have been made to the town, the most noticeable being the number of new houses which were built with the view of taking roomers during the college season.

—James Gorusch, proprietor of the Leonard hotel, in Altoona, profited by the electrical storm which visited that town last Monday. When a baby he contracted scarlet fever, which left him partially deaf. After a sharp flash of lightning during the storm Gorusch felt a stinging sensation in his ears and when that was gone he discovered that perfect hearing had been restored.

—Corn roast parties are frequent these days.

—Delightfully cool weather this, but just about right.

—Oysters will again be in season next Tuesday, September 1.

—Clair Miller resigned his position a deliveryman at Sechler's store and this morning and went to work for T. Clayton Brown, —The $25.00 prize for the best equipped company at the sixteenth annual Fireman's convention at Philipsburg was awarded to the Logan Fire company of this place.

—Postmaster General Meyer has issued an order amending the postal laws and regulations and hereafter all pensioners will be allowed the free use of the mails to return their pension vouchers.

—Saturday afternoon the repairs were made to Harry Shivery's traction engine which was wrecked at the corner of Logan and Spring streets last Thursday evening and the road machine was enabled to again go on the road.

—A son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Beck were slightly scalded Monday morning by the upsetting of a boiler of hot water. The girl is able to be about again, but the boy was not so fortunate and received more severe scalds, although not seriously.

—Early Saturday morning the Altoona police raided on opium dive conducted by John Low in the rear of his restaurant. Three persons were found dreaming and several casks of opium some hashheesh, pipes, gambling instruments, etc. were confiscated.

—The Snow Shoe base ball team spent a short time in Bellefonte on Saturday, having played at Lock Haven during the day. Snow Shoe and Howard are trying to arrange for an exhibition game to be played here soon. Such ball as these teams have been playing of late should attract a large crowd.

—Numerous improvements and additions are being made to the fish hatchery at Pleasant Gap. A number of new ponds are being made and many of the ones that had been damaged by the flood in the spring are being restored to usefulness. The grounds about the hatchery are in a very neat condition at present.

—Rev. C. C. Shuey occupied the pulpit at the Methodist church at the Sunday morning service. His text was a very timely one and his exhortation was filled with helpful thoughts and suggestions. Rev. Shuey is a very forceful speaker and on this occasion he made an earnest appeal to his hearers for a better and more consistent christian life.

—Young chickens and fruit have been disappearing of late in Centre Hall, and at the same time a huckster wagon from town began making trips to Bellefonte. Of course, it is a coincident that these "innovations" should begin at the same time, but a general alarm has been sounded and their association or disassociation will develop later.—Centre Reporter.

—Escorted by W. Harrison Walker, Esq. of Bellefonte, the Democratic candidate for Congress, the Coleville cornet band visited the Daily Journal yesterday afternoon and tendered us a very pleasing serenade, rendering some beautiful selections. Samuel L. Bryant is leader of the band, which is an organization composed of good musicians and a courteous lot of gentlemen—Philipsburg Journal.

—A strange freak of lightning caused the instant death of two American expert tunnel drivers and probable fatal injury to a third, early Saturday while they were working in a tunnel which had been driven a distance of 1,300 feet into the mountainside at Valley View, Schuylkill county. The lightning was carried into the underground chamber through the agency of the steel rails and it set off a charge of dynamite.

—That the New York Central railroad is anticipating a big increase of business on the Pennsylvania division of the road is evident from the work now under way at different points. The large extension which is being put to the big round house at Avis is believed to be only preliminary to other and still more important improvements at that place in the near future. In addition to the Avis operations the Central has put a large force of men at work rebuilding the north end of the old roundhouse at Corning which was burned in 1899. Other improvements are to be made at once in the Corning yards.

—At a game of ball in Tyrone last Wednesday when Tyrone defeated Huntingdon by the score of 11-4. Harry Otto was one of the Tyrone players, and Wilbur Twitmire played with the Huntingdon team. The Tyrone Herald comments on Otto's playing as follows: Thanks to Bellefonte for sending Dutch Otto out into the world to play ball. His work on first base was the talk of everyone on the field, for they were always sure of winning a point when anything went his way. His work was perfect and gave the most complete satisfaction. He was at the bat four times, got two runs, three hits and had twelve outs. That is certainly a warm record to run up against a team like the professionals from Huntingdon.

—Mrs. William Miller was taken worse again last Friday and was taken to the Bellefonte hospital, where she is yet in a serious condition.

—Superintendent John D. Meyer will be in his office in the stone building on Friday morning to examine and classify new pupils wishing to enter the public schools, which open next Monday.

—Bowes and Thompson, of State College, have received a new rapid, 12 passenger transfer car. The new car made a trip to Bellefonte on Saturday evening to take some passengers from the Bald Eagle Valley train to State College.

—Rev. Wm. P. VanTries, son of Dr. Thomas C. Van Tries, has accepted a call to the Trinity Presbyterian church of Berwyn, Chester, county, Pa. Berwyn is on the Pennsylvania railroad about eighteen miles this side of Philadelphia.

—John Smith, Lewisburg's well-known grain dealer, has in his possession a railroad ticket that is rather out of the ordinary. It was the first sold from Lewisburg to Coburn, No. 0, bought August 7, 1878, being thirty years old. Mr. Smith bought the ticket and has carefully preserved it ever since.

—Dr. Moses Thompson, 82 years old, of Lewistown, said to have been the oldest dentist in the state in active practice, died in that place Monday of catarrhal pneumonia. He was a graduate of the White Dental college of the class of 1857 and had been in continuous practice since that time, fifty years of which was spent in one office.

—"To prevent salt in saltcellars from becoming damp and lumpy, when filling them put in ten to twelve pieces of rice," says Woman's Home Companion for September. "This will not come through the holes in the cover of the saltcellars, but will break the lumps of salt and gather the moisture; thus the salt is always dry and fine."

—A meeting of the executive committee of the Centre-Clinton League was held in the engine house at Mill Hall Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. Several matters of importance were discussed and action taken, among which were the suspension from the league of Peck and Hall of Beech Creek. It was also decided to call off the postponed game between Mill Hall and Woolrich.

—Hon. Harry R. Curtin, who resides at Curtin's work, was taken suddenly ill on Wednesday with a peculiar affection that rendered him entirely speechless. Dr. George F. Harris of Bellefonte was summoned and taken to the Curtin home in Harold Lingle's car. In just sixteen minutes from the time Mr. Lingle left his garage, after going to the doctor's office and taking him in they arrived at the Curtin home.

Missioner Crittenden of Bellefonte, was in the city for a brief sojourn. Sunday morning he expected a friend to take him for Bible school services at Bottle Run. The friend was out of town and to use Missioner Crittenden's expression he "took his own conveyance that has been in use for over 75 years and not yet worn out." In other words the distance to the place of meeting he covered on foot.—Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin.

—While sitting in the middle of the floor playing with her three-year-old daughter Mrs. Wilbur Amon, 23 years, wife of a Washington, Pa., grocer died of heart failure. The child, thinking the mother had gone to sleep, gathered her toys and played near the motionless form. Several hours later, the child tiring of play, tried to wake the mother, but got no response. A neighbor noticing a caller gained no admittance, investigated and found the woman dead.

—The sheath gown has been put under the ban by the Altoona police authorities. Mr. Robinson, of the Edison theatre asked permission of the authorities to introduce the gown at the theatre, to discover whether the patrons of the house approved or disproved of it, and Mayor Hoyer and Chief Clark, after a conference decided that under the provisions of the city ordinance prohibiting anything tending to immorality the attraction would have to be abandoned.

—A new treatment for tuberculosis is being administered by the dispensaries of the state, the state board of health having some time ago decided to use this treatment in certain cases. Although a new form of fighting the dread white plague it is believed by experts that it will prove effective. The treatment is through injections of a serum of dead bacilla into the blood. These bacilli have a tendency to stimulate the white corpuscles in the blood, which will in turn kill the live germs of the disease, or of any disease for that matter. The injections are made about once a week for a certain period.

—A negro burglar gained entrance to the Bell telephone exchange at Rochester, Pa., late Sunday night and robbed several of the pay stations on the lower floor. He then tried to force entrance to the operators' rooms, where three girls were working, threatening to break in the glass door and kill them if they did not admit him. The girls threatened to hit him over the head with a chair if he attempted to enter, and one of them telephoned to the police. When officers arrived the negro was leaving and he escaped in the chase that followed.

—Cannonsburg this state is facing a serious typhoid fever epidemic. There are now about 34 cases and two have died. Wells are drying up and the water furnished to the town is not fit for domestic use.

—The 43rd annual convention of the state camps of the P. O. S. of A. opened in Hazleton on Tuesday. About 1200 delegates are in attendance. Pottsville, Johnstown and Washington are enjoying a lively contest for next year's convention.

—The 35th annual Grangers' picnic opened at Williams Grove on Monday, with a large number of people in attendance the first day. There is an unusually large amount of machinery on display. The picnic promises to be one of the best in the history of the Grange.

—Wm. Sampsel who was committed to jail last Monday evening on the charge of attempted criminal assult applied for a hearing which was granted and took place in the office of Justice J. M. Keichline Friday afternoon. A. W. Moore, manager of the Western Union Telegraph Co., and Frank Shugert were summoned as witnesses and after their testimony was heard he acknowledged it as the truth. He is now confined in the county jail awaiting trial at court.

—Elbe Stine is exhibiting a photograph of a freak of nature which he took the other day. Some time ago, no one knows how long, a hoop was caught fast in the creek near Milesburg. The action of the water caused the hoop to continually flop up and down. In doing this the hoop struck a stone every time it dropped and in time it cut a groove in the stone deeper than the width of the hoop. A strange thing about it is that the stone was cut away while the hoop was not much worn. The stone was evidently of a soft nature and sandy.

—From the attempts that some people make to get on the passenger trains at the Pennsylvania depot one would think that they were awful anxious to get out of town or else they do not have any better sense. The writer has noticed on numerous occasions persons who boarded the train before it had come to a stop and in many instances the steps are filled before the people in the train are off their seats. It seems that a person with any sense at all should stand back and let the people off the train before any attempt is made to board it. Traveling men are getting onto it and when any one rushes up the steps before they are off the men with the grips push them back, which serves them right.

Rev. W. H. Groh.

A telegram was received in Bellefonte Tuesday from Carlisle stating that Rev. W. H Groh had died that morning.

Rev. Groh was born near Meyerstown Pa., March 10, 1833. It was his mother's request that he should devote his life to the work of the ministry and this with his father's encouragement led him to devote himself to such a purpose and work. In the fall of 1849 he entered the preparatory department at Mercersburg and a year later the Freshman class at Marshall college and graduated from Franklin and Marshall Aug. 7th 1854, delivering the German oration. The same year he entered the Theological Seminary at Mercersburg and left in the spring of 1856, having been recommended for license by Drs. Schall and Wolff. May 5, 1856 he was licensed by the Lebanon classis to preach the Holy Gospel and ordained. He assisted his pastor, Rev. Thomas Leinbach for one year and was then called to the Berrysville charge in Dauphin county. He next accepted the Boalsburg charge beginning his work there December 20, 1857 and continuing until April 1, 1889. Here he spent the best years of his life, his ministry being most efficient and its influence will be felt for years to come. He next accepted the charge at Sulphur Springs, near Carlisle, which was his last charge, yet he continued to work faithfully in different departments until death called him hence.

He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Eliza Stein of Lebanon, to whom were born two children, one son who died in infancy and one daughter who married Rev. Wm. Roede, of Glen Rock. His second wife was Miss Julia Hess of Boalsburg, to whom were born two daughters, Margaret and Anna at home.

Funeral services were held at Carlisle on Friday, August 28, 1908 at 2 p. m.

Friends Quarterly Meeting

The "Friends" Quarterly meeting will be held at the usual time in their meeting house in Half-Moon Valley one mile west of Stormstown, and two miles south of Port Matilda, Sept. 5th to 7th, 1908.

The Sunday morning meeting in which the public are most interested convenes at 10 o'clock and all are cordially invited to observe this hour.

In addition to the usual morning and afternoon meetings, there will be a temperance meeting on Sunday evening the 6th, addressed by Henry W. Wilber, of Swathmore, Pa.

This meeting is held under the auspices of the "Friends" committee having such matters in charge and will be a good meeting for "local option" advocates as well as those opposed to "local option" to attend.

This treatment originated in Bohemia centuries ago, and more recently was adopted by some physicians in America. By this treatment drugs and the knife are largely eliminated, yet it has nothing in common with osteopathy, massage, Sweedish movement etc.—Centre Reporter.

Death of a Boy

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Solt, of Logan street, was saddened Saturday morning by the death of their son, Frederick Musser Solt, who passed away about 7:30 o'clock. Last spring when measles were prevelent in town he contracted the disease which settled on his lungs and since that time he had been ill, tuberculosis having developed. For the past fifteen weeks he had been confined to his bed, and while it was evident that he could not recover his death came as a sad blow to the family. He was aged 7 years 4 months and 7 days and was always a bright lad, having spent one term at school and gave promise of an noble future. His death leaves a sad vacancy in the family circle, and while they have the sympathy of their friends only a higher Power can console the aching hearts. Besides his parents he is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Clara, Grover, Mary, Sue and Jasper.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon, the family left the house at two o'clock and proceeded to the Evangelical church where services were held at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. J. F. Hower. Interment was made in the Union cemetery.

Centre and Clinton League.

Only one game was played by the teams of the league on Wednesday, it being the game at Orvis with Beech Creek. The Beech Creek team was reluctant to play on account of the crippled condition of the team, but realizing that the game would be forfeited if they refused to play, they went up against the Mountaineers. Lindsay pitched for Beech Creek and Young for Orvis. Beech Creek had only one hit off Young, while the Mountaineers had eleven off Lindsay. Lindsay had a three base hit but stranded on third. The game ended 8—0 and gave the Mountaineers a little boost toward the Snow Shoe standing.
